Marie Corelli's name is a household word all over the civilised world. Her works cover a wide field of observation, and "Vendetta" is certainly one of her best and most famous books. The screen adaptation of the story has been carried out on a most elaborate scale, and portrays its outstanding features with remarkable fidelity. With the characters delineated by some of the most capable artists of the day, gorgeous Italian scenery and exquisitely beautiful photography, this is undoubtedly one of the greatest screen productions yet attempted.

IN EXCHANGE FOR LOVE.

BY CHARLES GARVICE.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER V.—Continued.

"You've got me everywhere, Norton," he said. "I shall have to do what you want, whether I like it or not. It's a bargain."

"It's a good bargain for you," said Norton. "It's better than the gallus. I might have stripped you of everything, or landed you in quod. I'm leaving you your money—I shan't want much of it. You'll take charge of Nora, treat her as your own while you're alive, and when you're dead it will all come to her."

"That's as you say," said Chalfont.

"Then do it now," said Norton, not with feverish eagerness, but with a kind of confident doggedness; "there's paper right afore you; write out the will; it won't take long, it won't need many words."

Chalfont drew his chair to the table. If he had any wild idea of deceiving Norton by an incomplete, invalid document, he thrust it from him. Norton's terms would have to be complied with to the full.

"Oh, it's easy enough," he said. He wrote slowly, steadily; then he read out what he had written:

"I, Jesse B. Chalfont, of Chertson Hall Surrey, and 200 Cepthall-buildings, in the City of London, do hereby will and bequeath everything of which I may be possessed at my death to Nora.' How do you spell her name? Has she any other?"

"N-o-r-a," spelt Norton, his eyes fixed intently on Chalfont's face, now set with the calmness of a business man occupied in a business transaction. "It was her mother's name; she hadn't any other."

"'To Nora Norton, the daughter of my old friend and partner, Edward Norton, and I hereby appoint William Horton, my solicitor, as trustee on her behalf.'"

His voice ceased, and he looked waitingly across the table at the worn and haggard face in front of him.

"Is that all; it is set down straight and fair, so as you can't wriggle out of it?" demanded Norton, in a low voice.

"It is quite legal and valid," replied Chalfont, checking a sigh, for he was thinking of that other will which the lawyer had drawn up; thinking of the young man he loved, whom this girl was going to rob. Yes, "rob" was the word; for it had been Chalfont's brain, energy, audacity which had raised a million from the little bag of gold which he had stolen. The wretched man before him could never have made the money of which he was now depriving Jack. "Yes, it's all right; it will stand against anything. It is as good as if it was drawn up on parchment by the best lawyer in the land."

"Then sign it and give it to me. Oh, you don't think I'd trust you? Not, mind, that you could go behind me; for Nora's got that packet—that——"

"That will do," said Chalfont, sternly, and with a note of command in his voice. "I have told you that I am acting on the square; and, however it may have been in the old days, now my word is as good as my bond, as any one in the city of London would tell you. I'll sign the will now. But it would not be worth the paper it's written on."

"What do you mean?" demanded Norton, suspiciously.

"It wants two witnesses," explained Chalfont.

"Then get 'em," said Norton; "get 'em here, now and at once. I'll go behind the curtain, or step outside. I want to see 'em sign; I want that paper; I mean to have it."

He had raised his voice. Chalfont glanced up at the ceiling. He heard Jack cross the room, descend the stairs, and leave the house by the front door; he had evidently gone for a stroll. Chalfont breathed a sigh of relief.

"Better go outside," he said, and he unlocked the door.

Norton went through the window, and Chalfont rang the bell.

"Is James in the hall?" he asked the footman who appeared. "Tell him to come here."

The man went out, and returned with the other servant. Chalfont pointed to the paper, which he had doubled over, so that the writing was concealed.

"I want you to see me sign my name," he said, in a casual, matter-of-fact way. "Write your names here, with the address, and put 'Domestic servant.'" He signed his own name, and stood over the two footmen while, slowly and laboriously, they witnessed his signature. "Thanks," he said. "By the way, this is my will. I shan't want anything more to-night."

It was not the first time some of the servants of the place had been required to witness a signature, but when these two men learned that it was the great Mr. Chalfont's will they were duly impressed, and they went out with the air of persons who had been engaged in a highly official act. Chalfont waited for a minute or two; then he opened the window, and relocked it after Norton had entered. He was not afraid of being heard by the servants, for there was a second baize door to the room; and, again, no one would have dared to linger outside the door.

"There you are," he said, handing the paper to Norton. "Here, I'll put it in an envelope for you. I don't want to advise you—you'll do what you like, of course. I'm in your power; but I would advise you to keep quiet about that will until—until I'm dead. I will see that you are provided with money. Don't come here again—there, again, I don't make terms with you, I only advise. See here, now, Norton! There's danger hanging over us—as I say. The truth may come out with your blabbing; people would suspect tongues would talk, inquiries might be made, if you and I were seen together too often." He paused a moment, then went on in a low voice: "If the truth came out, if all you know against me got wind, you'd not only hang me, but deprive your daughter of the money that paper gives her. You understand that?"

Norton nodded. He had taken the notes from his pocket again, placed them with the will in the envelope, which he fastened carefully, and had buttoned his worn coat over the hollow chest, against which the packet seemed to him to strike warmly. His success, his triumph, appeared to have confused him; he looked about him a trifle wildly.

"I see what you mean," he said. "Good!"

"Good! If you want to see me—and we shall need to arrange about the money and other things—come to my office in the city. Will you have some more whisky?"

Norton shook his head, and moved to the window. Mr. Chalfont unlocked it, and Norton, as he stepped on to the threshold, drew a shoot of notespaper to him, and wrote, slowly, his lips twitching, as if the task were a painful one, performed under a terrible compulsion. When he had finished the letter, put it in an envelope and addressed it, he took the will, the will that gave everything to Jack, from the safe, and held it over the paraffin lamp, which he always burned in his den; but before the corner of the will had been more than scorched by the flame, he drew the paper back; his whole manner changed, the red rose to his face, his lips set with an expression of determination, and, seating himself in a chair, with the will before him, he rang the bell.

CHAPTER VI.

It was the sudden rising of the full moon above a bank of clouds which had lured Jack out. He knew that Mr. Chalfont was busy, and would not miss him, for a while at any rate. With Jim leaping down the wide steps in front of him, Jack crossed the drive and the great square of velvety lawn; then he stopped and looked back at the house.

He had admired it on the first moment he had seen it; and, short as his acquaintance with it had been, he had grown fond of it. But now there was an absolute affection, the pride of future possession, in his eyes as they rested on the really noble building. Again rang through him that warm thrill which he had felt when Chalfont had told him that he would be the heir. Even now he could not realise it, and as he turned and sauntered on, he told himself that he owed so great a debt of gratitude to his patron that he must endeavour to repay it, in part at any rate, by making Chalfont's life as easy and pleasant as possible; and Jack knew, with a sense of satisfaction, that he was in no hurry for his inheritance, that he certainly did not want Chalfont to die; indeed, he had got as fond of the man as he had of the house.

Take it all in all, Jack was really particularly happy that night; so also was Jim, who had had the luck to find a rabbit-hole and was now yapping furiously and shovelling up the dry earth with his quivering nose; but he came away from the spot at Jack's call, and they got into the drive again and passed through the gate. Here Jack stopped to reload and light his pipe, and while he was doing it he saw a woman approaching him. At first she was in the shadow, but presently she moved into the moonlight, which fell full upon her face. It was so beautiful a one that it would have arrested attention at any time; but there, in the silence of the country-side, in that lonely spot, the presence of so beautiful and graceful a girl Jack found startling; there was, too, something in the manner of her approach, in the pallor and anxiety of her face, which increased Jack's interest and curiosity. She paused as she came near to him, seemed about to speak, then changed her mind, and walked on, but with so evident an agitation that Jack felt constrained to stop, raise his hat, and inquire,

"Are you looking for anyone?"

The moment he had put the question, he was almost sorry for having done so, and he expected her to colour up and start away from him with the nervous apprehension of the ordinary girl; but, apparently, this was not an ordinary girl, for her pallor did not change, she did not shrink; but her eyes, meeting his with the preoccupation of anxiety, she replied in a low voice:

"Yes, I am looking for my father."

As Jack looked at her, he tried to keep the curiosity out of his eyes. She was a stranger to him; he knew most of the people who lived in the little cluster of shops and cottages, which might have been called a village, just outside the park; she was poorly and plainly dressed, but Jack knew that her station was higher than her attire; there was a note of dignity not only in her bearing, but in the low, clear, musical voice, in the calmness with which she waited for his reply, her eyes still searching the road.

"I have not seen anyone," said Jack; "but I've only just come from that house, there—have only just left the gate. Did he come this way; how did you miss him?"

She hesitated a moment; but as if she were forced by the pressure of her anxiety, she replied:

"My father came by train, a little while ago. He left the station and came in this direction. I saw him walking along this road; then I missed him."

Jack was puzzled by this statement.

"You came by the same train," he asked; "you were with him?"

"I came by the same train; but I was not with him," she said, a faint colour staining her face, the dark grey eyes downcast for a moment. She raised them, and as if obeying a sudden impulse, continued: "I was following my father. I was in the same train; but he did not know it." She hesitated, her white, even teeth catching at her underlip; then she went on: "My father has been ill; he has been much worried; has been strange. Oh, I can't explain. You wouldn't understand."

"Oh, but I think I do," said Jack, with that gentleness which came to his voice when he was speaking to a woman or a child in distress, and wanted to do something to help them. "Your father is in trouble; something is worrying him, and, like most of us, when things are up against us, he wanted to get away from himself."

"Yes," she said, with shy gratitude for his comprehension, "he has been very much upset. Something has happened recently to—to disturb him. He is not strong, and—I am very anxious. I want to find him."

"I see," said Jack. "Well, it shouldn't be difficult. You say you saw him come along this road; he was walking away from the village. There are no houses beyond this. Shall we go a little further?"

"You mean——"

LAW REPORT.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring.)

"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS."

Williamson, Ltd., v Australian Films, Ltd.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. S. A. Thompson, instructed by Messrs. Robson and Cowlishaw, appeared for the Australian Feature Films, Ltd., to make application for the dissolution of an injunction granted on November 27, by Mr. Justice Simpson, to J. C. Williamson, Ltd. The injunction restrained the Australian Feature Films, Ltd., from performing or representing Wilson Barrett's dramatic work, "The Sign of the Cross." J. C. Williamson, Ltd., claimed to hold the exclusive rights of the drama within the Commonwealth and New Zealand. Mr. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. Weigall, instructed by Messrs. Lambton and Milford, appeared for J. C. Williamson, Ltd., to defend the injunction granted.

Mr. Shand contended that the plaintiffs, J. C. Williamson, Ltd., had not set out their title to the cinematograph rights of the drama in such a way as to give them the right to claim the injunction, under circumstances now apparent. Plaintiffs had concealed from the Court, said Mr. Shand, material matter which should have been put before the Court. They had put before the Court a copy of a certificate from Stationers Hall, London, from which it appeared that J. C. Williamson, Ltd., had acquired absolute rights over the Australian States and New Zealand. That was admittedly a direct assignment from the author of the play. The Australian Films, Ltd., however, claimed their right to screen the film by virtue of an assignment of the cinematograph rights of the drama by a London firm.

Mr. Leverrier said Mr. Justice Simpson had decided that the dramatic rights enjoyed by the assignment to J. C. Williamson, Ltd., covered film rights.

His Honor: But Mr. Shand's point is that since then specific agreements have been produced which do not cover film rights.

Mr. Leverrier said there had been no concealment of any kind before the Chief Judge. His Honor had been told of the receipts given to J. C. Williamson, Ltd., for royalties paid in respect of the absolute rights to represent "The Sign of the Cross," and his Honor had decided it was not necessary to produce them.

The matter was adjourned till to-day.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Edmunds.)

COAL AND SHALE MINERS.

The Lithgow Valley Colliery Company, Ltd., Invincible Colliery, Ltd., and Commonwealth Portland Cement Company, Ltd., made application for consent to appeal against certain clauses of the award of the Coal and Shale Mining (West) Group, No. 1 Board, and also for an order for the suspension or rescission of the clauses pending the hearing of their application.

Mr. Maddrell (Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co.), appeared for the Lithgow Valley Colliery Company, Ltd.; Mr. Hemsley (Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley) for the Invincible Colliery, Ltd.; and Mr. Fawl (Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co.), for the Commonwealth Portland Cement Company, Ltd., in support of the application; and Mr. P. H. Sullivan (Messrs. Sullivan Bros), for the miners, to oppose.

The principal grounds for the application were that the rates of wages fixed by the board were excessive, and that certain of the clauses were unduly harassing and unfair to the applicant companies.

The application for consent to appeal was granted, but that for the suspension of the award pending the hearing of the appeal was refused.

WOMEN WORKERS.

The Women Workers' Union of New South Wales applied for the dissolution of the Shirtmakers' Board.

Mr. M. J. Connington appeared for the applicants, and Mr. Dreyer (Messrs. Stuart Thom and Co.) for the Shirt Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Dreyer consented provisionally to the application, which was granted.

FARM AND STATION.

BACKWARD FRUITGROWERS.

It is disconcerting to find the executive of the Fruitgrowers' Association officially asking the Department of Agriculture for advice as to the best means of treating brown rot in peaches, plums, etc. Not, of course, that it should not do so. The department exists for the purpose of furnishing such assistance, and will undoubtedly welcome such an opportunity. But the fact that what is the leading organisation of fruitgrowers, one might say the headquarters of the industry, should at this stage have to ask for such information is, to say the least, significant. It goes at once to explain to a large extent a great deal of the unsatisfactory condition of the fruit industry, and also, to no small degree, the reason why we hear a perennial complaint about dear fruit in Sydney. If the fruitgrowers in the county of Cumberland were progressive and up-to-date, keeping in touch with the exigencies and development of their industry, there would be no necessity at this stage to forward such a request from a representative body to the Department. It might be expected from individual growers beginning in the business, and anxious to learn what methods to follow, that would be a good thing—a course that it would seem evident has not been followed in the past. But it is a glaring admission of neglected opportunities and neglected duties when we find a position such as referred to arise.

Brown rot is no new thing. It has been prevalent, more or less, in most orchards about Sydney at least for some years, and during that time information as to how best to combat its attacks has been available for the asking. It would have been thought that every practical grower by this time would have known that systematic spraying with lime and sulphur mixture was the best preventive, just as it would be expected that such spraying was now part of the routine work in every orchard. That it is not is the reason for this disease being so troublesome this year, because atmospheric conditions were favourable. Yet such conditions might have been anticipated early in the year. They were in some orchards to the great financial benefit of the owners. But whatever the inspection, past presence of brown rot should lead every man growing fruit for a living to spray to avoid heavy loss at harvest time. Instead of this being the case, the loss sustained by growers of summer fruits, owing to the outbreak of brown rot, is the heaviest experienced for many years. Some growers have suffered to the extent of fully half the crop. It could be safely said that one quarter of the fruit never reached maturity, or was attacked before harvesting time, and one quarter has been lost in transit to market. The grower has not been the only loser; the retailer, who bought a few cases of peaches or plums to last him over the holidays, or week-end, found that a great part of the fruit spoiled before he could dispose of it. So many were the losses of the retailers that they were almost afraid to buy a case of locally-grown fruit, but relied largely on that brought from Victoria. A glimpse of the tickets during the last few weeks shows that growers do not handle their fruit with much care, and jumble packing is largely adopted. Lots of different stages of ripeness are packed together, irrespective of size and quality. Some growers used coloured lining papers to help make inferior fruit look attractive, and some used no lining papers at all.

Fruit which is apparently sound when packed in the box is, in reality, covered with tiny, invisible spores, and all that is needed to start the disease is the slightest wound, which gives the spores an entrance. The wound inflicted by a finger nail in picking or packing, the rubbing of the delicate skin against the rough, unlined sides of the box, or the shaking of a loosely filled case is sufficient to start the disease, and by the time it reaches the market the fruit is not fit for human consumption. One pleasing feature at this time has been that good sound fruit, well packed and packed, brought good payable prices; in fact, for choice fruit the prices have been exceedingly high. That is, the growers who follow proper methods are well rewarded, while those who do not lose money. Admittedly this has been the worst season known here for the disease, but the man who is spraying regularly is to a large extent provided against such a contingency. Spraying will not always prevent some loss, but it will avoid at least the smashing loss that is experienced in orchard experiences. On the whole spraying is not as effective against this disease as on others, but again, we know that this year in some localities growers were unable to spray owing to the continuous wet weather.

But the disturbing fact is that so many growers are apparently were ignorant as to when to spray, and what spray to use, when such knowledge was obtainable free of cost. This is an aspect of fruit-growing, and all kindred industries, that concerns the general community, which is expending a large sum of money annually to maintain a Department of Agriculture to assist the men on the land. At a time like this it finds good fruit dear, and also an enormous quantity of fruit that is unfit for consumption because, to a very great extent, the fruitgrowers have failed to help themselves or help the community as given. This is a most unsatisfactory position, considered from any standpoint. It is unfair to the community, unfair to the department, and against the interests of growers themselves. While it continues the fruit-growing industry will certainly never attain a sound footing, and appeals for assistance in the way of tariff duties on imported fruit or other directions are likely to fall on deaf ears. The splendid notes in these columns that concern fruit and fruitgrowing may be a help to a few, but the position of the growing of fruit has followed a blither standard of management generally.

BROWN ROT.

BY ILLAWARRA.

The fungus attacks the blossom and twigs, thus often destroying a portion of the fruit crop at blooming time. The diseased blossoms turn brown, and adhere to the twigs. The twigs also sometimes are affected. The disease may attack the fruit at any time, from the blossoming to the ripening period. At the latter period the greatest destruction is wrought. On the fruit the brown rot first appears as a small, circular, brown, patch, which rapidly enlarges, until, within two or three days, the whole fruit is affected. Whilst the spot is yet small tufts of whitish grey spores appear, arranged, more or less, in rings, until almost the whole surface is covered, presenting a greyish, mouldy appearance. Most of the rotten fruit falls to the ground, but a considerable portion may shrivel up and remain on the tree, and if not gathered in the pruning season, these shrivelled mummies carry on the disease to the following year.

Most funguses, and especially the brown rot, are influenced by the weather. Moisture not only favours the development of the disease, but it renders the fruit more delicate, and susceptible to attack. In hot, dry seasons, especially those accompanied by hot winds, this disease is very seldom experienced. Other influences affecting the disease are—Attacks of insects, such as peach tip moth and plum looper, both of which have been very prevalent this season; damp and lowlying situations, which do not permit of a free passage of sunlight and air, and close planting, are also undesirable.

The summer spraying of peaches was for some years a troublesome problem, owing to the injury to foliage resulting from the ordinary spray mixtures. But there is at the disposal of every grower an effective measure with which to combat the worst fungus disease of the peach. Three or four sprayings with soft-boiled lime and sulphur will be found effective. This spray is prepared by mixing 8lb of sulphur and 8lb of fresh stone lime in 50 gallons of water. This mixture can be prepared easier in rather large quantities, say, enough for 200 gallons of spray. Place 32lb of lime in a barrel or boiler, and pour over it enough water to almost cover it. As soon as the lime begins to slack, the sulphur should be scattered on to it. The mixture should be constantly stirred, and enough water run into it to reduce it to a thin paste. The lime should supply enough heat to boil the mixture several minutes. As soon as it is well slacked more water should be added, to prevent further cooking, and the whole should be diluted to 200 gallons. If the lime is sluggish, hot water may have to be used for the slacking process. If when cooking the mixture, the heat is too great, and red-brown streaks are seen coming through the mixture, it must be at once cooled, otherwise it will damage foliage.

The first spraying should be given just as the calyces, or old, dried blossoms, are being shed; the second spraying about two to three weeks later. This may contain 3lb of arsenate of lead to every 100 gallons of the mixture as a preventive against so-called plum looper and tip moth. Arsenate of lead sometimes blotches the fruit and leaves of the peach and some varieties of plums, but this is preferred to the attacks of the grubs. If the third spraying is given, approaching the ripening period, the arsenate of lead must not be added.

Owing to the wet spring we have experienced in the early part of this season, a bad year for fungus diseases was expected, and the careful growers took precautions to ensure their crops against attack. At Mr Chilton's orchard at Turramurra precautions were taken to prevent the spread of the disease, with very satisfactory results. Up to the present the loss could be estimated, at the most, at 1 per cent. The following treatment was carried out:—When the fruit was the size of an almond they were sprayed with self-boiled lime and sulphur, 8-8-50 strength, followed in two weeks' time with another spraying at the same strength, but with the addition of 3lb arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of the mixture, followed by a third spraying of late varieties, when concentrated lime and sulphur was used, at one gallon of solution to 100 gallons of water. The concentrated solution was used to avoid marking the fruit, as this spray is almost invisible. Mr. Chilton is of the opinion that another spray should have been applied, but owing to the boggy condition of the soil this was not possible at the right time. In this experiment a little damage was done to foliage in each case, but the fruit was not in the least marked.

EXPERIMENT PLOTS.

HAY-GROWING AT INVERELL.

The Inverell hay plots were located on Messrs. Kook Bros.' farm, Rockmount, Inverell, and were planted on May 27, on black soil, which had been disc-ploughed 5 to 6 inches deep in February last, and subsequently spring-tooth cultivated three times, excepting one plot, which was planted on non-fallowed land, ploughed up and worked down just before planting. The plots germinated well, and on account of the good condition the land was in, and to receiving 217 points of rain in June, and 116 in July, a splendid growth was made for this season of the year. A dry August and September, however, during which only 33 points of rain were received, was a severe trial, although 259 points were received in October. This good rain, although valuable, was too late to give high yields. The plots were cut for hay on November 6, and the yield of cured hay was later carefully obtained, the following being the yields per acre from the various plots:—

| | Tons | cwt | qrs | lb |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Firbank, 45lb per acre, non-fallowed | 0 | 11 | 3 | 24 |
| Firbank, 45lb per acre, summer fall. | 1 | 9 | 2 | 4 |
| Firbank, 30lb per acre | 1 | 9 | 0 | 16 |
| Firbank, 60lb per acre | 1 | 10 | 3 | 21 |
| Zealand, 45lb per acre | 1 | 11 | 1 | 4 |
| Rymer, 45lb per acre | 1 | 12 | 0 | 22 |
| Huguenot, 30lb per acre | 1 | 9 | 0 | 17 |
| Nardoo, 45lb per acre | 1 | 0 | 2 | 10 |
| Bomen, 45lb per acre | 0 | 19 | 2 | 3 |

These yields are satisfactory, for the season experienced. The value of summer fallow over non-fallow, or of early ploughing over late ploughing, is strikingly demonstrated by the results obtained in this experiment, the summer fallow giving an increased yield per acre of 17 cwt. 2 qrs. 8lb over non-fallow, or an increase of 147 per cent. in yield. The non-fallowed plot was given every chance, being spring-tooth cultivated twice after ploughing to break it down for planting, so that a good germination resulted. In the seeding trial there is very little difference due to the use of 20, 45, and 60 pounds of seed per acre, and this, taken in conjunction with the fact that last year, when plots were sown with 25, 35, 45, 55, and 65 pounds of seed per acre, the thinner the sowing the better the result, indicates that on the rich, black soils of the Inverell district, when the land is well prepared, and good grade seed is sown seasonably, from 20 to 40 pounds of seed per acre for hay is sufficient. Naturally this is the minimum amount of seed to sow, and higher rates of seeding would be required on the lighter chocolate and red soils, and the older cultivated paddocks, where the wheat would not stool so well, and also for sowing on roughly prepared land, and with ungraded seed.

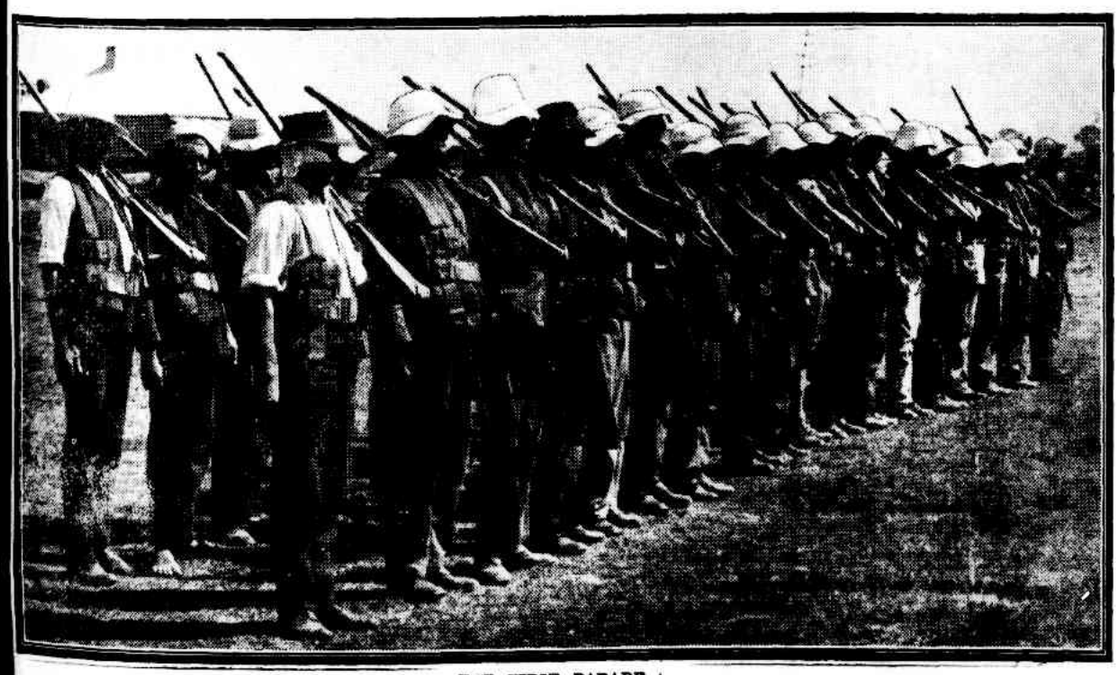

The different varieties tested have yielded in the following order of merit:—New Zealand, Rymer, Firbank, Huguenot, Nardoo, and Bomen. Zealand, Rymer, and Firbank can be confidently recommended for hay in the Inverell district. They yield heavily, and produce good quality hay, which weighs well. Where a heavy growth is made, however, these three varieties are all inclined to lodge. Huguenot, or "Ice Huguenot," is a beardless macaroni wheat, valueless for grain, but it has given some exceptionally heavy yields of hay in South Australia, and is valuable for green fodder. It has done fairly well this season, and will be tried again next year. The two new wheats, Bomen and Nardoo, have not yielded satisfactorily, but it would be unfair to condemn them on one season's trial only. On Mr. W. Tonkin's plots for grain at Delungra Bomen has yielded satisfactorily for two years. Its yield this year was 24 bushels 37lb per acre. Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Kook Bros. to continue these hay plots next season.

PRICE OF MEAT.

"Retail Butcher" writes:—"Grazier" says the present unwarrantable price of meat to the consumer is mostly caused by the retail butcher and labour conditions that exist, and states that after it is sold at Flemington and before it reaches the consumer it increases in price 100 per cent. As a retail butcher of 20 years, I am not going to allow this to pass without challenge, and I cannot understand how labour bodies cannot plainly see the whole matter is a juggle, as each day brings forward some new excuse. The present state of affairs has its birth at the time of the great strike of last year, when fat stock salesmen, squatters, carcase butchers, and a section of retailers discovered what a factor they were in the land. Labour bodies at the time gave them some trouble, and especially slaughtermen, whose demand they still fight with every weapon they dare. You are first told the war, the drought, the scanty market, etc. Still the Sydney Meat Preserving Co., and several other canners, together with carcase exporters, are operating at the markets at top speed. Reports of stock sales appear in the papers as up to-day, down to-morrow, lines harder, lines a little weaker; next sale tops all records. So the juggle goes on. All cold-storage space in the State, and also the extensive space quite recently placed at their disposal by the City Council's new cold stores, is filled to the fullest extent. Still consumers are asked to pay the exorbitant prices for meat. I say stand up to a man, and show them by voice and power that you can combat their tactics. Call out your wharf-labourers who handle this export meat in any form, tinned or carcase, and all your allied bodies, as they call their combination. I say that under any conditions our local requirements, especially national food like meat, should be obtainable at fair prices, and not put us up against the world's competition. It is useless asking the State Government to impose an export tax. I believe in all sincerity that our present Government is really anxious to do something practical from facts and actions of theirs that came under my notice during last year's strike in the meat trade, and in which, to my sorrow and regret, I took active part, as did many other retailers, who can now see plainly through the whole game. This State has no constitutional power to impose an export tax. The Federal Government alone can do that, and then it must apply to all States, some of which do not deserve it, as in Queensland there are no high prices there to local consumers, although there are considerable operations going on in the export business. If the Government will only look into the right channels, and provide a dead-meat market with a supply of chilled or frozen meat from Queensland on which retail butchers could operate for spot cash, much better conditions might prevail.

ARRIVAL AT LIVERPOOL TO UNDERGO A PERIOD OF TRAINING.

THE FIRST PARADE.

MUDGEE WHEAT EXHIBIT.

The Mudgee Wheatgrowers' Association's fine exhibit of local wheat at Challis House includes a sample of wheat grown on Wallihan farm, where on one padock Federation this year yielded 40 bushels per acre, which it is understood is a record for the whole State. The association is making the exhibit to draw attention to its desire to create an interest in wheat production in the Mudgee district.

THE WHEAT GRAB.

E.J.W., Bankstown, writes:—"The Necessary Commodities Control Commission do not in any measure realise the hardships of us poor poultry farmers in relation to the price of bran and pollard. Yesterday I paid for same 2s per bushel, or £10 per ton, and yet these necessary poultry foods are exported. Do try to help us." While the Bankstown poultry farmer and many others are being hard hit, purchasers of these cereal meals, nearer the city are worse off still. Within a stone's throw of what some months ago was Darlinghurst Gaol bran and pollard are being sold at 2s 3d per bushel of 20lb, about the same price as the best flour. The Under-Secretary for Agriculture was always professed a friendly feeling to poultry farmers, and has now the first opportunity of putting his good wishes into effect. Agitated poultry farmers, and they are many, should appeal to the wheat board's chairman.

Mr. W. Doel, farmer, Curlewis, writes:—In this district we have had four or five years' hard times, when we have only been able to make an existence. For three years we got nothing out of our cattle till this year, and for the last four years our wheat crop only paid expenses. Our wool is held up this year, and the Government has taken our bit of wheat. I have been robbed of two hundred pounds, if not more. The Government is asking us to increase our area, and offers to guarantee that we would get four shillings a bushel for our wheat that is grown on new ground; but I think that they may be like the Kaiser, if it suits them not to regard the scrap of paper, as they have done this year in annulling all the wheat contracts.

The cause of dear meat is not altogether the drought, but it is the high wages and the short hours, and the proudness of the Australians. You know as well as I do that they want everything to be brought to their door. If they attended the market in the morning they could get things at half the price.

PRICE OF CHICKWHEAT.

WOLLONGONG, Wednesday.

Mr. Blackburn's statement in the "Herald" that he had bought chickwheat in Sydney at 5/10 a bushel, and thought the price excessive, was referred to to-day by a representative of one of the milling firms. Considering that milling wheat costs 5/6 a bushel landed at Darling Harbour, he said, and chickwheat is one penny dearer, the price mentioned is a very reasonable one. The cost of carriage to the store, weighing, handling, and all the rest of it, would amount to at least one penny a bushel, so that the cost of chickwheat to the man in Sydney is really about 5/8, and his profit is, therefore, only twopence a bushel. There is an impression abroad that the price of wheat landed in Sydney is 5/ a bushel. This, of course, is wrong, as it can only be bought at country stations for that amount, the proclaimed price for ordinary wheat in Sydney being 5/6, and for chickwheat 5/7.

RABBIT PRESERVING.

BERRIGAN.—Operations in connection with rabbit preserving have been commenced at the Shepparton freezing works. A fair supply is being received, and it is anticipated that a profitable business will be done during the season.

SHEEP ON THE TWEED.

MURWILLUMBAH.—An unusual sight for Murwillumbah was witnessed on Tuesday, when a bullock waggon laden with 16 bales of wool arrived from Hopping Dick Creek. The wool was grown by F. Baker, who relinquished dairying some time ago to go in for wool-growing. The shipment was his first clip, and it is understood that sheep do remarkably well on his farm. A further extension on this river of the wool industry should considerably add to the importance of the Tweed district, wherein canegrowing, dairying, banana culture, and maizegrowing are already so successfully followed.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

MUDGEE.—The Mudgee Agricultural Association recently made an appeal to showground and pavilion debenture holders to forego interest due to them this year, or to defer their claims to such till next year, owing to the diminished revenue the association is receiving on account of the withdrawal of the Government subsidy. A generous response has been made by debenture-holders, and £36 has been served to the society by a forfeiture of interest this year. A number of other debenture-holders consented to defer their claims till next year.

FORBES DISTRICT.

FORBES.—Mr. W. G. Dowling, in a report dealing with the condition prevailing in the district during the preceding year, remarks that the climatic conditions as regards rainfall were very upsetting. In the early autumn things looked rosy, the rainfall in March being better than in 1913, and a return of good seasons was forecasted. It was a good stock year up to June, after that the drought conditions became more and more emphasised, crops never looked like big yields, the subsoil being so dry that the surface moisture was not sufficient to keep the plant moving, even on fallowed land. The wheat crops on an average went about four bushels to the acre. In dealing with noxious animals the Inspector suggests that power should be given to P.P. Boards to destroy on roads and T.S.Rs. Owners are under the present law compelled to destroy rabbits on all roads bounding or intersecting their holdings, but where they are netted off from such roads, this part of the Act would be very hard in its incidence if strictly enforced, as the rabbits travel for miles along roads. Foxes are kept under control by reason of their skin value, and the fact that they attack sheep and poultry. The professional rabbit trapper is also their enemy, as they decrease his source of employment.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

WAGGA.—At the annual meeting of the Murrumbidgee Pastoral and Agricultural Association, the president, in moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, said it was a wonderful report, considering the drought and the war. It really meant that on the year's work there was a profit of £700, and although the cash balance was a little less in favour of the association, they had effected permanent improvements to the extent of £822. He reminded members that the Government subsidy was to be cut off this year, and members would have to put their shoulders to the wheel and try to show the Government that they could do without a subsidy. If there was any association in New South Wales that could do without it, that at Wagga was one of them.

DAIRYING.

BYRON BAY.—The North Coast Co-operative Company's pay last month was £119,800, being over £12,000 more than any previous month, and easily a record pay—1000 tons of butter having been made, 500 tons more than the corresponding month last year. Cream suppliers were paid 10½ for A, and 9½d for No. 1. A strong percentage of second-class cream came in through the warm weather, and suppliers are advised to purchase coolers at 40s each. Latest advices from London are favourable. Bacon is reported firm at 10½d per lb, which will mean a rise in pork next week. Shareholders will be paid dividends this month, and bonus will be sent out next month.

GERRINGONG.—Mr. Alex Campbell held a clearing sale for Mr. Edward M'Clelland, when there was a large attendance of buyers. The highest price paid for milkers was £13/5/, and 50 cows averaged £10/0/4 per head. The bull brought £10/10/, and two young bulls £6/5/ and £6/2/6 each. The working bullocks were very fat, and averaged £27/2/6 per pair; yearling heifers, £7, nine months £5/2/6, and six months £3/12/6 each; poddies, £1/16/ each. One sow brought £5/17/6, and two slips £2/5/ each.

PAMBULA.—The Pambula Dairy Company made 48,776lb butter in December, valued at £2200. Suppliers were paid 11d net.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BERRY.—The improvements to the Berry Show ground, which have been in progress for some months past, are now almost complete. The horse and cattle stalls have been transferred to the southern end of the ground, and in their stead a children's park and recreation ground is in course of formation, which will be formally opened on the first day of the Berry Show. The work was carried out by the local Agricultural Society at a cost of £500. As the result of the prolific season the Show Ground just now looks well. At a meeting of the society it was unanimously decided that the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Ashford) be invited to open the show.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

SWEET POTATO.

"An Inquirer."—Some growers nip the vines when four or five feet long. The tubers should be dug about April, or earlier if wanted for personal use. They should be lifted before the frost comes, as that affects the keeping quality. Tubers may be kept, after lifting, for a long time without deteriorating if they are packed in dry sand, straw, or dried fern and kept from the light. In cooler climates it is sometimes advisable to lift the vines occasionally to prevent them rooting, as the tubers should be on the main root.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

THE A.W.U.

There are many matters of importance to be dealt with at the annual conference of the Australian Workers' Union, which opens at Sydney on 26th inst. Included in the many notices of motion are the following:—"That the price for shearing be: Flock sheep 30/ per 100, stud ewes and lambs £2, rams, ram stags, and maggotty sheep £3; that the minimum wage for shed hands be £2/10/ and found, irrespective of age; that 44 hours constitute a week's work for the pastoral industry; that all sheep with prickly pear be at the rate of 5/ above award rates; that all pressing, paid by the week, be at the rate of £3/10/ and found; that a minimum wage of £3 be paid to all shearers; that all roustabouts be paid £2/10/ per week; that an accident fund of some sort be established; that coloured organisers be abolished; that contractors be compelled to have one learner to every 10 shearers; that the Railway Commissioners be asked to provide sleeping cars at an extra cost to facilitate the comfort of second-class passengers, similar to the system now carried out in Queensland; that the Accommodation Act be amended on the lines of the Queensland Act, and that other than police be appointed as inspectors."

RAILWAY WORKERS' CONFERENCE.

The whole of the notices of motion respecting reorganisation submitted by branches failed to secure endorsement at Tuesday's session of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association. Schemes which were submitted for a sick and funeral fund also failed to find endorsement. The general secretary, Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, outlined a national funeral fund. He was authorised by the conference to draft a scheme with a view to having a plebiscite vote taken upon it.

On Wednesday the following motion was carried in respect to reorganisation:—"That five district secretaries be appointed, by ballot, of the whole of the members, in addition to the three organisers and the Portland secretary, such secretaries to be stationed in districts to be selected by the executive." The salaries of the district secretaries were fixed at £4 and expenses.

The following delegates were elected to attend the P.L.L. Easter conference:—Messrs. W. Rosser, D. A. O'Sullivan, C. Hogan, J. C. Geddes, A. M'Anulty, and J. Webster.

CENTRAL BRANCH A.W.U.

The new officers of the central (Orange) branch of the A.W.U. are:—Vice-president, of the A.W.U. for New South Wales, Mr. Bailey; branch president, Mr. E. H. Richards; secretary, Mr. W. H. Lambert; branch representative on executive council, Mr. W. H. Lambert; delegates to A.W.U. annual convention, Messrs. J. Bailey, W. H. Lambert, E. Kennealley, L. T. ### MUSICIANS' UNION.

The quarterly general meeting of the Musicians' Union was held on Tuesday.

A proposal not to accept any engagement with alien enemies, whether naturalised or not, was defeated. It was resolved that employers employing unnaturalised subjects of the enemy be requested to give preference to competent musicians either naturalised or subjects of the allied forces.

AUSTRALIAN TRAMWAY EMPLOYEES.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Two meetings of the Victorian branch of the Australian Tramways Employees' Association were held to-day to consider the amended constitution of the association, which was drawn up by the executive in view of the decision of the High Court that the association was not constitutionally formed. At the morning meeting there was a moderate attendance, and the proposed constitution was rejected by 17 votes. There was a larger attendance at the afternoon meeting, and it was carried by a large majority. Subsequently it was decided to treat the two meetings as one. When the total votes were counted there was a majority of 60 in favour of the new constitution. The constitution was declared adopted, and it was decided to lodge a copy of it with the Registrar of the Commonwealth Arbitration Court. Meanwhile new rules will be adopted, and steps taken to form branches in the various States.

FEDERATED ENGINE-DRIVERS.

An award covering engine-drivers and others in sundry industries has been issued. The wages of engine-drivers varies from 1/6½ to 1/8 an hour, and that of firemen from 1/0½ to 1/1½ an hour. Trimmers are to be paid 1/, and greasers and cleaners from 9d to 1/ an hour.

LATE MR. WADE.

FUNERAL AT WAVERLEY.

The funeral of the late Mr. Leslie Augustus Burton Wade, M. Inst., C.E., New South Wales, Commissioner for Irrigation, took place at Waverley yesterday, and was attended by a large number of prominent citizens and representatives of the various departments of the Public Service. Deceased was a brother of Mr. Wade, leader of the Opposition in the State Parliament, and among those present were Mr. J. H. Cann, Chief Secretary, and Mr. Ashford, Minister for Agriculture, representing the State Government, and a number of members of the State Parliament.

A service was conducted at St. Mark's Church of England, Darling Point, by Archdeacon Gunther, assisted by the Rev. E. Howard Lea. In the course of a short address, the Rev. E. Howard Lea said:—"Although in these days we think of the heroes on the battlefield, there are, indeed, heroes in the world of business and commerce; men who give their lives to their country. Such a one was he of whom you are now thinking. His was the work of turning the wilderness into a garden, and he turned it, not only by his official act, but by the sweetness of his own character, and the magic touch of his own personality. We want to say so much of sympathy for those who are left to mourn, but the tongue cleaves to the roof of the mouth, and we feel utterly unable to express what we would say."

The chief mourners were: Mr. Burton Wade, representing his father; Mr. C. G. Wade, M.L.A., who is absent in Tasmania; Mr. A. L. Wade, and Dr. R. B. Wade (brothers); Mr. Charles W. The service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. E. Howard Lea.

THE WEATHER.

RAIN IN NORTH-EAST.

Further good rains have been registered over the north-eastern districts, north-east of a line joining Walgett and Jervis Bay. This rain is the result of the high pressure surging southwards and allowing the monsoonal depression which has been hovering about the northern parts of Australia, to enter New South Wales. A northerly surge was in evidence yesterday, and finer weather may be expected. The best falls were in the Hunter and Manning districts, and on the northern coast and highland. Thunderstorms accompanied some of the heavy falls. The chief amounts were:—Port Macquarie 185 points, Paterson 177, Maitland 116, Kempsey 120, Taree 175, Walcha 111, Nambucca 100, Bellinger and Manning 90, Werris Creek 78, Quirindi 65, Boggabilla 58, and Tamworth 40.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning it was raining on the coast between Camden Haven and Tweed Heads, but inland it was fine generally.

WATER METERS.

At the meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board yesterday a motion was brought forward to empower the officials to remove from premises any or all three-quarter inch or one-inch meters that had not earned more than 2s 6d per annum for two years and upwards, and to charge instead for water by measurement, in accordance with the regulations.

It was stated that the meter system in many cases was a cause of waste of time and money on account of the attention and account keeping necessary.

It was decided to obtain a report as to the number of non-payable meters in use before taking action.

ALLEGED ASSAULT.

A man has been arrested in connection with the alleged assault of Thomas Tringle, a saddler, of Belmore-road, Randwick, who was admitted to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital by Dr. Cohen on Tuesday afternoon, in an unconscious state, suffering from a fractured skull. Tringle's condition last night was reported to be critical; he had not then regained consciousness.

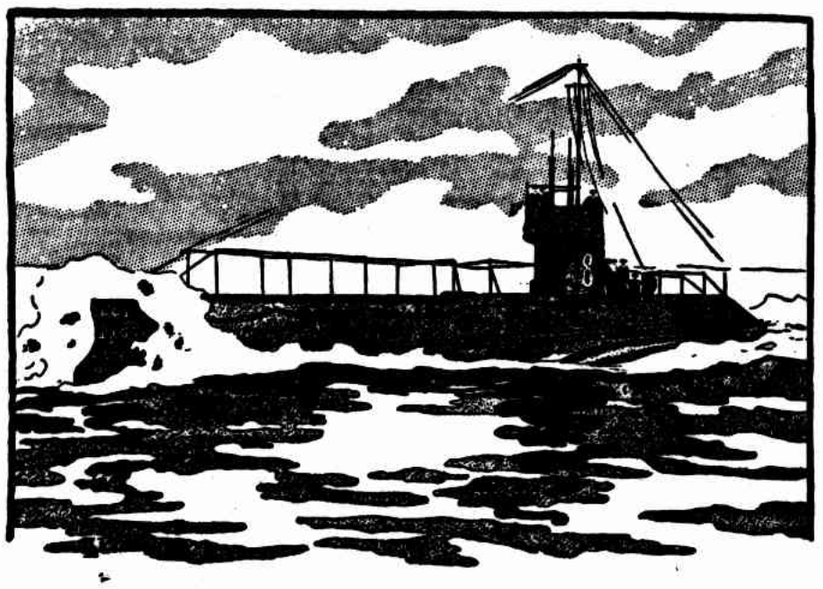

The assault was alleged to be the outcome of an argument, and resulted in Tringle falling and striking his head on the footpath.

Petrol's Part in the Great War.

The Deadly Submarine

Of all the engines of war, the submarine is just now very much in evidence. It may be of interest to know that the motive power for submarines when travelling on the surface is motor spirit, large quantities of Pratt's brand being used for this purpose. When submerged, however, the power and light are derived from electric storage batteries, which have previously been charged by the motor-engines above referred to. This use of electricity permits of movements under water without the tell-tale exhaust of a motor-engine, besides preserving the purity of the atmosphere in the submarine—thus enabling long journeys under water to be made.

OUR STATE SYSTEM.

MUNICIPALISM AT WORK.

EXEMPTIONS FROM RATING.

The worry which shire and municipal representatives receive through the string of exemptions to rating in the law will impel them to endeavour, by their representatives, to have an alteration made in clause 135, which in the new bill reproduces some of the foolishness of the old system. The councils have to give free municipal services of many kinds to public bodies, some of which are run on commercial lines. One of the chief offenders is the Commonwealth Government, which has exempted itself from municipal taxation, and leaves the burden of paying for its necessary services to the ratepayers and citizens of the different areas. Again there is the Railway Commission, which is a statutory body, operating on commercial lines. Why should the citizens, who pay the Railway Commissioners for services rendered, be expected to render service to the Commissioners for nothing? There is a better argument for exemption in regard to churches; but when these endeavour to have the schools attached to them included in the exemption it is rather overdoing it. The rich Sydney University is supposed to be a self-contained and self-supporting institution, with large private and public endowments. Why should it be exempted from payment for services rendered out of the pockets of others? There should certainly be some notice taken of clause 135 when the bill comes before Parliament.

OUSTER FROM OFFICE.

The procedure in connection with the ouster from office of persons who are alleged to have been unduly elected, or disqualified, is somewhat antiquated, and should be simplified in the new Amending Bill. The procedure now is to hear allegations by affidavit on a motion for a "rule nisi" before a Supreme or District Court Judge, or a court of petty sessions. If that rule is granted the matter is argued on a motion to make the rule absolute. There are some objections to this. First, it causes the parties to go to the expense of two steps; secondly, the matter is decided on affidavit evidence. The matter should be decided in one step, by a summons of the parties before a court of competent jurisdiction, or by a petition to a court capable of hearing and deciding such matters. Such court in a proceeding brought before it could hear evidence of all kinds relevant to such an inquiry from witnesses present in court, whose demeanour can be appraised (an affidavit has no demeanour to assist a court). It could inquire into allegations of miscounting, could open the ballot-boxes, and have a recount; could hear evidence as to bribery or corrupt practices; could also look into the qualifications of candidates, and as to whether nominations were properly made; and give a satisfactory legal decision, which could be accepted by all parties and by the public. The time to make the change is ripe, and an occasion is furnished in the new bill.

CITIZEN LIFE AND ENVIRONMENT.

It is a pity that Mrs N. J. Dunlop's paper, read at one of the National Health Society's meetings last year has not been published by the society or by the Government, and scattered broadcast throughout the State. It would certainly broaden the view which a great many of our councillors and aldermen take as to the duties of a council in regard to public health. The thread of her argument is a strong support to those who are followers of the new housing and planning movement. She says:—"Into the sordid homes and unlovely places of the city the poor must congregate by force of circumstances. Where rents are high from any cause whatever, the result is overcrowding, with its want of privacy, and unwholesome propinquity of the sexes . . . There are no precautions taken by any controlling force to sort out the weakly from the stro short of actual illness; the feeble-minded from the well-balanced, short of actual imbecility; the maimed or blind from the whole, provided they can be maintained by any but the State." Mrs. Dunlop makes a notable plea while stating that "an enormous loss to our national interests is going on, by neglecting to incorporate in our councils, municipalities, and boards, the influence and knowledge of some of our devoted women, especially where child life and the interests and welfare of women and girls are concerned; for, say what we will, it is in the hands of the women that the future of humanity lies." Probably Mr. Griffith will cure this defect in his new bill. The lecture was packed with hints which should be taken to heart by every shire councillor or alderman throughout the State. An opinion may be expressed here that it is a pity that the very valuable lectures on public hygiene and other matters of civic interest which are delivered annually to the Health Society by leading experts are not preserved and printed.

THE WOOLLOOMOOLOO ROAD MUDDLE.

The City Council is making a tardy attempt to rehabilitate its reputation, somewhat damaged in the citizens' eyes by its complicity in the mutilation of three parks by the cutting of an unnecessary road from Woolloomooloo Bay to Park-street. It has accepted Alderman Magree's motion that the town clerk report on the matter. On a previous occasion the same alderman sought an inquiry by a Judge, alleging that there were certain circumstances which made a judicial inquiry a necessity. That was defeated, however, and the citizens must be content with the more restricted inquiry. The present mode, though apparently the best the council can offer, is unsatisfactory per se. To begin with, it loads a very heavy task upon an over-burdened official; and also imposes upon him a thankless and delicate duty. Mr. Nesbitt is not a man to shirk either work or responsibility; but, while engaged in this task, his other duties must suffer.

COUNTRY MUNICIPAL ENTERPRISE.

The local authorities in the country districts have for some time been display'aying a notable activity in progressive administration. The "Herald's" correspondents in Campbelltown and Tenterfield give good news of movements by the councils in those towns on the road of progress. The Campbelltown Council has decided to recommend the ratepayers to adopt electricity as the illuminant for street lighting, and has resolved to get expert opinion with respect to the cost of the installation. This is a laudable step, and will, if it reaches achievement, mean a great advance in the conveniences and amenities of life in the town. In Tenterfield the council has decided to enter upon the ownership of municipal salevards, and the installation of an electric lighting and power plant. The former will cost £1100, and the lighting plant £6200. As far as the council is concerned, the matter is settled, but the ratepayers have yet to be consulted, and a poll of these is to be taken. There is small doubt that the proposal will be carried, as it is eminently business-like and progressive; and no body of townsmen who desire to benefit themselves and their fellow citizens, and enhance the importance of their town, could refuse their sanction to the inauguration of "trading" services which can, with good management, be made self-supporting; and which will enhance the health and the comfort of the citizens generally.

TINY RED SPOTS ALL OVER BODY.

W. Jarvis-street, E. Brunswick, Vic.—"When my little girl was 10 months old her skin became affected. Tiny red spots appeared all over the body, and in spite of various treatments rapidly grew worse until the spots were nearly the size of a shilling. She was very cross and could not sleep of nights, and used to scratch herself until her little body bled. This continued for over two months, and we were at our wits' end what to do to ease her. This complaint puzzled my elderly relatives and friends, and my chemists recommended me one thing after another, without success.

"Some time ago I determined to give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. After two or three applications of the Cuticura Ointment I noticed the skin looked more soft and less inflamed, and at the end of three weeks the spots had completely disappeared, leaving the skin beautifully soft and clear, and I now can say she is completely cured—thanks to the wonderful Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) Mrs. E. Holmes, Oct. 3, 1914.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to F. Newbery and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

N.S.W. v. SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

VISITORS' HARD TASK.

As a result of yesterday's play in the South Australian-New South Wales match at the Sydney Cricket Ground, the visitors require 279 runs to win, with nine wickets in hand. New South Wales increased their score from two wickets for 74 to 388, which, with the lead of 93 runs on the first innings, left the South Australians 348 to win, towards which they have scored 69 for the loss of one wicket. If they succeed, they will have accomplished a very fine performance. During the day only 230 runs were scored—exactly the same number as on Monday.

Yesterday was an ideal day for cricket, the air being cool and the wicket perfect. In such circumstances it was expected that the home side would score fairly heavily, but expectations were not realised; in fact, so well did Whitty and James bowl before lunch that four wickets fell for an addition of 65 runs, the record being six for 139. The sixth wicket actually fell at 107. After lunch three wickets fell cheaply, and nine wickets were down for 165, and the end appeared near. Surprise No. 2 then occurred, as Ratcliffe (59) and Best (24 not out) added 87 runs for the last wicket in 97 minutes by excellent cricket. The wicketkeeper swung a free bat, but was missed when 2 by Mayne in the slips off Whitty. Best shaped soundly.

Earlier in the day Bardsley had increased his not out score to 45, and was then caught in the slips off James. Randell shaped fairly well, but was out to a smart right-handed catch at square-leg by Willsmore, who had missed him earlier at the same spot off Whitty. Andrews and Minnett fell to the prowess of Whitty for 5 and 1 respectively. Taylor (29) and Kelleway (27) added 39 for the seventh wicket, but Taylor's innings was faulty, as in addition to being missed at forward square-leg by Willsmore off Whitty, he made several uppish strokes in the slips. The bowling was accurate, and Taylor's forcing tactics not only weakened his stroke play, but his defence. Kelleway's form was very good.

Apart from the missed chances, the South Australians' out-cricket was good, although the ground was still heavy, and impeded the progress of the ball. As in the first innings, Whitty and James bore the brunt of the attack, Whitty taking six wickets for 103 in 249 balls. James's record was one for 48 in 132 balls. Mayne, Wright, and Willsmore each secured a wicket. Whitty's performance before lunch yesterday was as fine a bit of effective bowling as has been seen for some time. He and James started bowling at noon, and at ten minutes to 1 Whitty had taken three wickets for 12, and James one for 19, the batsmen being kept almost entirely on the defensive. After the interval, Whitty soon bowled Taylor and Scott, and his record for the day was five for 36, and on a perfect wicket. However, 32 runs had been scored off his bowling on Tuesday. His figures were spoilt by Ratcliffe and Best, and his final record was six for 103. Mayne made rather too much use of the left-hander. James again bowled accurately.

The South Australians began the last innings of the match at 4.36 p.m., and when stumps were drawn had lost Moyes's wicket for 69 runs, made in 82 minutes. Mayne (31) and Willsmore (17) played out time, and took no risks. Bardsley made frequent changes in the bowling—six men were tried—but the batsmen plugged on, picking up singles and doubles here and there. Randell missed Moyes when the latter had made 12, but the slow bowler made amends shortly afterwards, as on being tried at the bowling crease in lieu of Kelleway, he had Moyes caught off his great ball by Macartney at fine leg. Scott, Kelleway, and Minnett were difficult to score from. Minnett bowled Willsmore with a no-ball.

The attendance was meagre. The game will be continued to-day at noon.

SOUTH COAST MINES.

MEN DISCONTENTED.

STATEMENT BY THE SECRETARY.

WOLLONGONG, Wednesday.

According to statements made by the executive officers of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association, the unrest which has been apparent for some time amongst the miners shows no signs of abatement. Further discontent has been caused by the fines recently imposed on a number of wheelers at Coal Cliff colliery, and a delegate meeting was held in Wollongong to-day to deal with the matter.

Mr. A. C. Willis, general secretary, speaking to a "Herald" representative this morning, laid the blame for the present state of affairs on the managers. "The recent stoppage at South Bulli," said Mr. Willis, "was brought about by the action of the management in deducting a fractional part of a shift from the wheelers and others, for leaving the mine a little earlier than usual on Christmas Eve. It has always been the custom for men to knock off early on that day, and this year no exception was made at the other collieries. At South Bulli alone the innovation of deducting a few pence was introduced. The wheelers naturally resented this, and, as there were also shortages in pay, due to mistakes, they endeavored to interview the manager before proceeding to work on the following Monday, but he refused then to discuss the matter with them. As a consequence, the mine was laid idle. The award clearly states that all existing customs, excepting where expressly modified, shall continue. It is a pity, in the interests of all parties concerned, that more discretion is not practised by those in authority on occasions of this sort."

Referring to a recent article in the "Herald," which commented on the number of stoppages that had occurred during the past few months, Mr. Willis said that undoubtedly a number of these strikes took place over trivial matters, which should have been adjusted amicably. But he maintained that the fault lay quite as much with the several managers concerned as with the miners. The association, he said, had decided to use every endeavour to see that no stoppages of this nature would occur in future. At the same time, it was to be hoped that the managers would also do their part, and avoid doing anything that was calculated to produce the results complained of.

Another matter, said Mr. Willis, that had been the cause of considerable unrest, was the failure of the proposed conference to meet and discuss the question of the surface hands' wages. They were assured, however, that the conference would not now be long delayed, and probably a more or less satisfactory solution would be arrived at. Under the old award the custom was for the surface hands to receive a proportionate rise when the miners' wages were increased. This time the surface men were given a separate board, which met and practically concluded its deliberations, but was restrained from issuing its award; so that the men concerned were deprived of a privilege previously enjoyed, without receiving any corresponding benefit.

THE HOPKINSON PIANO.
This Piano is British-built, and is a veritable triumph in value. Due allowance for Australian climatic conditions has been made by its makers, and, as a result, the Hopkinson serves a lifetime in districts where more expensive European makes last comparatively a very short period. Many of the leading makes are unsuited for Australia. The Hopkinson is strongly recommended for any part of the Commonwealth.

THE BREAD WE SHOULD EAT, AND WHY!

Repeated handling of the Material and the hot atmosphere of the average Bakehouse, which are the conditions of ordinary manufacture, make pure Bread an impossibility, and yet scientists and doctors assure us that the first essential of health is pure food. Happily these evils are avoided by using ABEL'S BREAD, which is machine made by the latest scientific process. The Flour, as it comes from the Mill, is first freed from all impurities, and then the whole of the ingredients are mixed, and the various processes of manufacture completed, by the aid of the finest and most delicate of machinery, specially introduced for the work. There is practically no handling at any stage, and the air of the workroom is maintained pure and at an even temperature in all seasons.

The Bread is as wholesome and nutritious as it is possible to make it, and, notwithstanding the enormous cost of production, ABEL'S BREAD is sold throughout Sydney and Suburbs at the same price as Bread made by the ordinary old-fashioned and objectionable methods. DEMAND ABEL'S BREAD, and look for the name, which is on every loaf.

THE TIME OF PREPARATION.

Such messages as that sent to Paris by the London correspondent of the "Temps" are welcome and occasionally necessary reminders of the immense exertions of Great Britain through the most stirring period of the war down to these weeks of comparative calm. The writer omits the services which might be said to fall within the particular province of the British Empire. He does not allude explicitly to the enormous services of the British navy in checking the supply of war material to the enemy, and in keeping open the trade routes for the Allies. He dwells rather on the help which was not anticipated from a non-military Power, or, at all events, not anticipated with absolute confidence. The first of these services is a proof not merely of national energy and patriotism of a high order, but of astonishing power of organisation. Although the outbreak of war was a surprise to the people of Great Britain, she was able within five months to have an army of half a million in France and Belgium, to seize and hold a valuable position on the Persian Gulf, the key to Mesopotamia, to send newly-enlisted troops to India, where they may finish their own training, and take the place of Indian regiments now at the front, and strengthen the defences of Egypt against any attack. Such a record is an answer to any imaginable charge of degeneracy, of want of patriotism, or of want of method. It is enormously strengthened by the industrial achievements on which the French journalist lays emphasis. The maintenance of the British army has, we know, demanded intense efforts from British manufacturers. A severe strain has been imposed on them by the necessity of keeping the army and navy supplied with all transport, its comforts, and its offensive operations. But they have done more than that. They have kept the Allies supplied with details of equipment which they could not obtain for themselves while their respective countries were crippled by mobilisation or invasion. We have heard, for instance, of the contracts given to Nottingham firms for supplying boots to the French army, and of the supplies of rubber obtained by the Russians for a similar purpose. We know how the French woollen manufacturers must have suffered by the devastation of northern France, and of the attempts made by British manufacturers to supply their place, though with incomplete machinery.

These facts account for the satisfactory statistics of unemployment, and for the apparent delay in recruiting in certain parts of England. They illustrate the danger of withdrawing men for military duties from avenues of employment in which they are doing useful and necessary work, and the difficulty recently suggested by Lord Crewe of introducing the compulsory system into England. Indirectly they suggest the enormous influence that Great Britain would have on the future conduct of this war, even if she were to send no more men into the field. With the command of the sea against her, and her manufacturers deprived of their supplies, Germany would be unable to wait before striking a decisive blow until the balance of conditions was in her favour. With their supplies secure, both of food and of equipment, the Allies could wait on the defensive as long as they please, conscious that the enemy must go on losing lives. If, in addition to these factors, we remember that by the beginning of the spring the British force will be doubled, and the French armies largely reinforced, it is not difficult to account for the tone of optimism in Lord Kitchener's last speech, and in all the recent despatches from the front. German authorities at the beginning of the war laughed at the possibility of Great Britain being able to improvise an army capable of standing beside the highly trained soldiers of the expeditionary force. But that tone of derision has given place to one of uncertainty as the confidence of the Allies has increased. The Russian army, it is true, has not invaded Germany with the speed that was anticipated after its early victories. But it has held its own, its bases are secure, and it has inflicted appalling losses on Austrians and Germans alike. In Flanders, and in northern France, and in Alsace, there is a constant give and take. The fighting is serious enough to those who are engaged in it. It is a necessary element in the prolonged sieges which in this war have taken the place of pitched battles. But it is not the kind of fighting that is designed to drive the Germans out of Belgium, or even out of France. At present the troops that have borne the worst of the German onset, that protected Calais and the coast against the finest corps in the Prussian army, are in reserve. Sir John French and Sir Douglas Haig have each had time to visit England, while the line has been held by new troops. In the early spring the well-tried regiments will be back in their places in a line which will no longer be abnormally thin, but which will be held by sufficient troops to enable the Allies to choose their own time and their own place for an attack. Among these regiments will be the Canadians, after their stern training in England, and the Australians, hardened by their Egyptian training. The occasion, however confidently we may regard it, will be a crisis in the history of the world. Only men of the narrowest interests can help wishing to do all in their power to bring about the victory of the allied arms, whether their opportunity comes to them as personal service, or whether they are able to help in the manner in which Great Britain is helping the Allies, by preserving the flow of trade between this country and Europe.

RIFLE CLUBS AND DEFENCE.

Much has been said and written concerning the obligation of every able-bodied Australian to do his share in the defence of the Empire at this crisis in its history. In point of fact, the average Australian has shown no reluctance whatever to do his share; his difficulty has been that he has not known how his services can best be utilised. There are thousands and thousands of men who for various excellent reasons cannot join the expeditionary force. They feel that their duty at present lies at home. But should the necessity ever arise they are prepared to come forward, and in the meanwhile they are anxious to undergo some sort of military training in order that if and when the call comes they may at least have acquired the rudiments of discipline, and may know how to handle a rifle. Their trouble has been that they have not known how to set about it. To such we most heartily commend Senator Pearce's advice—join a rifle club. The Defence Department, with no blame to itself, cannot hope to undertake their training in a more direct way. War came upon us while our military system was still in its infancy. The resources of the authorities are taxed to the utmost in training and equipping those who have volunteered for active service, and in providing for those who join the ranks each year under the Defence Act. It can hardly be expected to create new units of a "national reserve," or some similar body, though, no doubt, it would gladly do so were this in its power, and though such a body would be besieged by recruits.

Those who criticise the Government because it can find no place save in rifle clubs for the host of those who ask nothing better than to be taught how to fight for their country, forget that an army cannot be made simply by a stroke of a pen and a number of enthusiastic volunteers. It has to be clothed and it has to be armed. Assume that every would-be recruit is thus equipped, there remains the question of instruction, which is even more important. Officers, commissioned and non-commissioned, are not made in a day, and there is only a limited supply in the Commonwealth of those who possess the necessary qualifications. Obviously, their proper work is not to devote their energies to any national reserve, but to train those who are bound for active service, or who are undergoing their period of compulsory service. These have the first call. Senator Pearce is the last man to discourage military enthusiasm, and when he declares that it is not advisable in his opinion to form a national reserve, one must recognise the reasonableness of his attitude. Anyone can find in a rifle club a sufficiently wide field for his activities. He will learn to shoot and to drill, for rifle clubs include among their members many ex-army men who will be eager to place their knowledge at the club's disposal. Moreover, there is no necessity for those who follow Senator Pearce's recommendation to feel that they have been snubbed in any way, or that the department is trying to get rid of them by this advice. The rifle clubs are a very important entity in the defence scheme, and are officially regarded as such by the authorities. Lord Kitchener assigned them a definite function in his report. They were to be organised as a reserve force, to be, in fact, in each district the nucleus for the training of men who form the second line of defence. Senator Pearce now suggests that they should take up this role in earnest. Hitherto they have, perhaps, stood a little apart from the general military organisation of the Commonwealth, but now the opportunity has come to incorporate themselves in it more intimately. When Lord Kitchener wrote his report he surely had in view just such a contingency as has arisen. It remains for the public to carry out his design.

CATTLE BOOM.

SENSATIONAL PRICES IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

At Enoggera fat stock sales to-day the market for beef was sensational. Rates per head rose by £2 to £3, compared with last week's prices, which were excessively high. Best bullock beef averaged 48s per 100lb, and in a few instances realised 70s and more. One bullock changed hands at £25/5/, creating a record for Queensland. The extraordinary rise was attributed to successive short yardings. Calves brought prices in keeping with cattle.

PERSONAL.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) will leave to-morrow for Newcastle and Port Stephens. Yesterday he dealt with several matters in connection with the Cockatoo Island dock.

Professor Fawsitt, who occupies the chair of Chemistry at Sydney University, and Mrs. Fawsitt, are spending a month's holiday at Palmerston North, New Zealand.

Among the messages of sympathy received by Mr. Holman yesterday in connection with the death of Mr. Trefle, was one from the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Mr. Frank Clarke, M.L.C., who is to represent Victoria at the Panama Exposition, will leave Melbourne to-day, to join the Sonoma in Sydney.

Superintendent Goulder, who is to take charge of the Maitland Police District, will leave for his new post this morning.

The passengers booked by the Sonoma leaving Sydney for San Francisco on Saturday, include Mr. J. Ashton, M.L.C., Mr. Arthur M. Eedy, general secretary of the Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Company, and Mr. St. John Whitney, manager of the Leslie Salt Refining Company, of San Francisco.

Mrs. Pickles, mother of Lieutenant Sydney Pickles, who is on active service with the Royal Naval Flying Corps, has returned to Sydney after an absence of over a year and a half in England. Mrs. Pickles made a flight across the English Channel with her son.

THE MAILS.

Owing to the R.M.S. Moldavia being two days late, the next English mail will not be delivered until Wednesday next. The Moldavia is expected at Fremantle to-day.

The R.M.S. Niagara, from Vancouver, is due at Sydney to-morrow.

LABOUR AIMS.

P.L.L. ANNUAL REPORT

LAND VALUE RATING.

UPPER HOUSE ABOLITION.

Instead of opening the annual conference of the Political Labour League on Anniversary Day, which has been the custom for years, it will not be held this year until Easter, the opening date being fixed for Saturday, April 3, at the I.O.O.F. Temple, 140 Elizabeth-street.

The annual report states that there are over 550 branches in existence, with almost regular additions.

NO TRADES-UNION PARTY.

"The facilities offered under the rules of the P.L.L. for union affiliation have been largely availed of, with the result that at the present time 96 are officially attached to the movement. The voting at the conferences gives the unions a direct controlling influence in the election of the executive, of all delegates, and in the construction of the platform and the constitution. Apart from this direct union representation, some of the delegates representing electorates are also members of unions, so that there does not appear to be the slightest justification for the suggested formation of a separate trades-union party.

VOTING COMPARED.

"While there is a marked improvement shown in the solidarity of the Labour vote in New South Wales, when compared with the results of the previous election, it is apparent from the appended statement that there is still room for a little improvement:—

| | Labour. | Fusion. |
|---|---|---|
| "Total House of Representatives vote | 349,470 | 337,763 |
| "Highest Senate vote | 344,151 | 341,569 |
| "Less than Rep. vote | 5,319 | — |
| "More than Rep. vote | — | 3,806 |

LAND VALUE TAXATION.

"Having regard to the fact that all shire councils in the State are compelled by law to rate upon land values only, and that all municipal councils have the power to do so, and with the exception of Sydney have adopted that system, it was decided on November 27 to convey to the Premier the following resolution:—'That the Government be requested to submit to Parliament immediately a bill amending the Sydney Corporation Act, making it mandatory that all rates for local purposes shall be struck on the unimproved value of the land.'

WATER AND SEWERAGE RATES.

"In regard to the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Boards, it was decided on November 27 to convey to the Premier the following resolution:—'That the Government be requested to submit to Parliament immediately a bill to give effect to plank No. 24—(a) Amendments of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Act so that rates shall be assessed on the unimproved value of the land. (b) Members of all water and sewerage boards to be elected by adult suffrage.'

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

"Consequent upon the failure of successive Governments to place the local government franchise on an adult suffrage basis, the control of municipal and shire councils is almost entirely in the hands of Labour's opponents. It does seem an anachronism," the report continues, "that in a community where representatives are elected to the Legislative Assembly and to both Houses of the national Parliament by the adult residents, that the important functions of local government should still be virtually monopolised by property-owners.

"The executive considers that a separation of the franchise from the proposed Local Government Bill is a confession of weakness, and an incentive to the enemies of adult suffrage to redouble their opposition. The omission of the franchise from the bill is the cutting out of the heart of the measure and excision of the main organ to which all other organs or clauses should owe their vitality, and this executive cannot approve any local government scheme which is not based on the wide foundation of adult suffrage.

THE UPPER HOUSE.

"Although the abolition of the Legislative Council has formed part of the first plank of the fighting platform since 1908, no practical steps have yet been taken to carry this part of the programme into effect.

"There is only one way for the constitutional abolition of the Upper House, and that is by a majority of that body voting for its own extinction.

"Hence every appointee to the Upper House opposing any plank of the Labour platform not only negatives the Labour policy, but strengthens the Chamber that has been a traditional enemy to democratic reform, and renders the solution of this pressing problem almost impossible.

"The executive considers that in all future appointments not only should rule 58 of the P.L.L. constitution be rigidly adhered to, but such men should be of long and loyal service to the movement, and not persons whose personal ambitions and selfish ends are more apparent than genuine democratic service and self-sacrifice.

"But beyond any question of the personnel of possible appointees is the urgent need for at once commencing the fight on constitutional lines for the abolition of the Council. Its continual existence is a perpetual menace to democracy, a buttress to all forms of privilege and monopoly."

INTERSTATE CONFERENCE.

The conference of the Australian Labour party will be held in Adelaide on May 24. The Mosman P.L.L. has submitted for the approval of the New South Wales executive the following notices of motion:—

"That the Commonwealth Land Tax Act be amended to provide a flat rate of 3d in the £ on the unimproved capital value of land throughout Australia, the present tax to continue as a super-tax."

"That the Old-age Pensions Act be amended to provide that all eligible claimants shall receive the full amount payable under the Act, irrespective of money or property possessed by the claimants."

GOLD YIELD.

DECREASE FOR THE YEAR.

The usual return furnished by the Under-Secretary for Mines shows that the gold yield recorded for this State for the month of December was 16,948 ounces crude, equal to 15,815 ounces fine, valued at £67,177, as compared with 15,229 ounces crude, equal to 13,634 ounces fine, valued at £57,914, for the same month in 1913.

The yield for the year 1914 is 148,934 ounces crude, equal to 124,507 ounces fine, valued at £528,873, as compared with 183,773 ounces crude, equal to 149,657 ounces fine, valued at £635,703, for the year 1913, thus showing a decrease of 25,150 ounces fine and £106,830 in value.

NOTE ROBBERY.

FEDERAL CLERK CHARGED.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Solley Burvill, a clerk in the Pensions Office of the Commonwealth Treasury, Sydney, appeared in the City Court to-day on a charge of having stolen, on December 4, two packets, containing £2000, the property of the Commonwealth Government. Mr. C. Barnett appeared for the accused.

In applying for a remand for a week, Detective-Sergeant Burvett stated that practically the whole of the stolen notes were in circulation. There were certain facts which would be prejudicial to the Crown case to mention at the present time. Two packets, containing £1000 each in notes, were in the course of transmission replaced by two other wholly fictitious packets, closely resembling the original. The white blank paper which had been used for the purpose of substitution had been traced definitely to the possession of Burvill. The robbery was a very clever one, and he asked for substantial bail.

Mr. Barnett: You do not suggest that we have the monopoly of the white blank paper?

Detective Burvett: You had to a certain extent.

Accused was remanded until January 20. Bail was allowed in one surety of £1000, or two sureties of £500 each, and Burvill's own recognisances of £1000.

SOUTH AFRICA.

A GERMAN WAR AND CIVIL WAR.

GENERAL BOTHA'S HEAVY TASK

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

CAPETOWN, Dec. 2.

You are, of course, aware that the Union Government, at the outbreak of the war, decided to undertake the conquest of German West Africa, and thus render the Imperial troops stationed in this country available for service elsewhere. While nobody knew the number of men the enemy could put in the field, yet the magnitude of the task was apparent to the reflective. The very character of the country to be invaded—an arid region of sand and "kopjes"—its inaccessibility, the difficulty of transport and communication, owing to the absence of railways; these and many other features made the project a formidable one.

Arrangements were made to invade German territory at three points in the southern portion—on the coast, on the south border, and on the east. A force was sent to the port of Luederitzbucht, and this place was occupied without opposition, as the enemy had retired to the interior, having blown up the railway and destroyed the wells. Another force landed at Port Nolloth, in Namaqualand, and advanced to Raman's Drift, on the Orange River. It was a portion of this force which fell into a German trap, and was captured. The third force was concentrating at Prieska, which is, or rather was, the nearest point on the Union railway to the eastern border of the enemy's territory. Within the last three months the line has been carried as far as Upington, about one hundred and twenty miles nearer the border. This third force suddenly became the centre of interest and anxiety. It was here that the trouble began which made the task of the Union Government, already sufficiently great, infinitely greater.

Prior to the mobilisation of the defence force the Germans had invaded Union territory by crossing their eastern border at Nakob, not far north of the Orange River. In overwhelming numbers they attacked a small police outpost, which, after a most gallant resistance, was captured. They then retired to their own ground, and seemed to be content to play a waiting game. This was so contrary to their usual strategy that one found oneself wondering what it meant. We were not to remain long in doubt as to the significance of their action. It was a signal—the signal for rebellion.

The most striking secrecy had surrounded the plans and purposes of the Union Government. I doubt if a more rigid censorship existed in any other part of the Empire. Dutchmen as well as Englishmen learned lessons in the Boer War. The position has a touch of humour for those who can see the humorous side of things. The fact remains that South Africans, on the whole, knew little of what was happening. Only those who, like myself, were travelling up and down the main line, knew anything; and that was little enough. There one saw troop-trains and baggage-trains, day after day, proceeding both northwards and southwards in unceasing procession. The Defence Force was being mobilised, and the country suddenly became flooded with men in khaki uniforms. One's thoughts were immediately carried back to the days of the Boer War, although so many of those who were now wearing that once-hated uniform were Dutchmen. To those who knew their Africa, however, it was very significant that certain of the country districts were not included in the mobilisation orders.

Meanwhile the authorities were busy in other directions. This land is full of Germans, both naturalised and otherwise—traders and professors, musicians and commercial travellers, merchants and ministers—all more or less potential spies. Unfortunately, the naturalised variety cannot be touched until caught in some nefarious design, and is therefore the more dangerous, for a German is always a German. The other variety has been rounded up by the police in all directions. Concentration camps have been formed at different centres, and a steady stream of enemy subjects has been proceeding to these, where they will have abundant opportunity to ponder the consequences of their "kultur" propaganda.

Thus I return to that third force, which was concentrating at Prieska. A certain Colonel Maritz had been placed in command of this column by Beyers, ex-Commandant-General of the Defence Force, just before he resigned. We can all see the reason for this appointment now. Maritz has had a chequered career; he is simply an adventurer. Like Beyers himself, he is just the kind of material that the German agent is always seeking, and he was the man fitted to put into operation the despicable scheme which Beyers and his German masters had evidently arranged. The conduct of Beyers was as infamous as it is possible to conceive. He did not resign his post until the plan of campaign was settled, and we may naturally conclude that he betrayed this to the foe—hence the surprise and capture of 200 of our men under Colonel Grant, in the vicinity of Raman's Drift, to which I have already referred. While Beyers was perfecting his plot, and while guns, ammunition, supplies of all kinds, and money (the amount rumoured is £38,000) were being forwarded to his fellow-conspirator Maritz, he made a great patriotic speech at the defence force camp at Booysens, in the Transvaal, in which he said that he was "proud to lead such a splendid body of men against the enemy." Although he has proved himself to be crafty beyond measure, he found that he was dealing with wise and clever men in the Union Government, and he evidently concluded that it was time to escape from the fate which he so richly deserved. He therefore resigned, and no one was surprised when his resignation was announced.

It will be apparent to you that the actions of Beyers and Maritz were interdependent. How they exactly dovetailed I cannot remember at this distance of time, and I have not the means of ascertaining, but I can at least fix the date of the beginning of the rebellion. I was at Matjesfontein on October 11, and it was then that I heard the news. Some of your readers who were over here for the Boer war will remember this little place on the Karroo, which is associated with the name of "Jimmy" Logan. It is on the main line, about 190 miles from Capetown, and about 50 miles from the spot, in the Hex River Pass, where the recent accident occurred, when a train with 700 of the Kaffrarian Rifles on board fell down the embankment, and 14 were killed, while about 50 were permanently injured.

I happened to walk across from the hotel at Matjesfontein to the station just as a troop-train came in on its journey northwards. To my surprise I saw that the men on board belonged to the Natal Light Horse; and then train after train came hurrying through bearing the whole of this regiment and other forces from Capetown. Now, I happened to know that this regiment had come round from Natal only a few days previously, and gone under canvas near Capetown. I had seen the men in camp, and their destination had been stated to be German West—as we call it.

When I called the attention of the friend with whom I was staying to this, he said, "Don't say anything about it, but I have heard that Maritz and some of his men have gone over to the Germans." The next day I travelled to a station about 80 miles nearer Capetown, and there I met the member for the district, whom I knew. Both being cautious, we manoeuvred for position. Eventually I learned that he had ridden in from his farm to telegraph to one of the Ministers, to learn if the rumour was correct. Unfortunately it was correct, but we had to wait longer for full information.

It would appear that the Government, having learned more than some persons supposed, had ordered Maritz to hand over his command to a certain Colonel Brits. The traitor not only refused to do this, but he sent an impertinent reply—a kind of manifesto—and published a copy of an agreement made with the Germans. He demanded that the following individuals should be allowed to join him—Beyers, De Wet, Kemp, Muller, and Hertzog—stating that he would receive instructions from them alone. The first four are now in the field leading rebel commandoes. Where, one asks, is the gentle Hertzog? Probably in some safe retreat, hourly cursing his friend Maritz for having been either too candid or too sanguine. The inclusion of his name in the list of rebel leaders is too significant to be disregarded.

We subsequently learned that Maritz paraded his commando, and ordered all who would not follow him into rebellion to cross a certain mark. A brave and noble 53 crossed that mark, and, for all they knew, it might have meant their death. He arrested them and handed them over to the Germans as prisoners. The heroic action of these men should not be forgotten. One day, in the train, I was talking of this incident to a special service man, and he said, "Maritz must have had a 'shirt-sleeve' parade; otherwise one of those fellows would have shot him."

The number of men who followed Maritz we do not know, but it has been stated to be 1700. With these, and all the plunder which he had been collecting, he started for the enemy's territory. But good Colonel Brits had his revenge. Starting in pursuit, he came up with the rebels, defeated and scattered them, and captured their convoy, together with many prisoners. Maritz managed to escape, but he carried a memento with him in the shape of a bullet in his knee. Since then his followers have been well hustled by the Union columns, and most of them have either surrendered or been captured.

THE TRAINS.

REDUCED SERVICES.

FALL IN REVENUE.

REVISION OF TIME-TABLE.

To meet a serious falling off in the railway traffic of the State, due to drought and the war principally, it has been found necessary to reduce the expenditure of the Railway Department. This will involve reduction in the train services.

An official statement to this effect was made to a "Herald" reporter yesterday. It was pointed out that such reductions would however, be made only after the fullest consideration had been given to the requirements of the public. The reductions to be made would affect practically the whole railway system of the State. In all cases where trains were really necessary to meet the public convenience, in the case of goods trains required to carry produce, for instance, they would be run; but as there had been a very serious falling off in the production of the country, it was obvious that in goods trains services a considerable reduction could be effected. Passenger traffic, too, was now less than it was a short time ago. The week before last, according to the official figures of the Railway Department, there was a shortage of £20,000, as compared with the corresponding week of last year. Unfortunately there was no indication that the position was likely to improve. The matter was having the consideration of the Commissioners, nothing definite as to train services in the near future had yet been settled; and, in consequence, no details of the changes proposed could be furnished. It was stated, further, that it was really in respect to country branch lines upon which business was almost dead as a result of the failure of the wheat harvest and the drought that changes would probably be made. The Cooma line, upon which it had been stated the Commissioners proposed to curtail the existing service, had been a losing line ever since it was opened; but it had not been decided whether the mail train would be discontinued.

With regard to the reported shortening of staffs, it was stated that an effort would be made to maintain the men in their employment as far as practicable; but they might have to work short time. Sydney men were not likely to be affected. They had already been dealt with. The interstate traffic was not likely to suffer, as the express traffic was still fairly satisfactory.

The first detailed statement as to the curtailment of the services would, it was added, be given in the amended time-table; and at the present time the current time-table was being thoroughly overhauled.

CITY LOAN.

DAY-STREET EXTENSION.

£300,000 BORROWED.

Another of the city improvements planned by Sir Allen Taylor when he was Lord Mayor, and to the carrying out of which the city Council has been committed for some time, is now to be put in hand.

This is the Day-street extension, a work of such magnitude as to necessitate the raising of a loan of £300,000, though all that money will not be required for the purpose. The loan has just been accomplished on terms that the Lord Mayor says are eminently satisfactory.

Day-street lies between Sussex-street and the waters of Darling Harbour, and extends from Erskine-street in a southerly direction, crossing King and Market streets, and deviates easterly into Sussex-street, south of Market-street. Instead of this deviation into Sussex-street it is proposed to continue Day-street in a southerly direction across Druitt and Bathurst streets, parallel with Sussex-street, and terminating at the junction of Liverpool and Harbour streets. It was estimated by Sir Allen Taylor that the work would cost only £200,000, and that the value of the residues would be £100,000, leaving a net cost of £100,000. It is stated that Sir Allen Taylor's estimate of the cost of the work is below the mark. The making of the new street will open up what is now a very congested area, give better means of ingress and egress to Druitt, Bathurst, and Liverpool streets for the harbour end, enormously relieve the congestion in Sussex-street, provide valuable frontages, and, incidentally, be the means of giving employment to a large number of men.

In announcing the fact yesterday that the loan had been successfully floated, the Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) said that some time ago the council had resolved upon the resumption of the necessary buildings and properties required for the Day-street extension. He had, with the town clerk and city treasurer, felt the pulse of the money market from time to time, and yesterday the negotiations were completed for a loan of £300,000 at 96 at 4 per cent., repayable at par in 10 years, which meant that the loan would return interest to the investor at the rate of £4/10/2 per cent. per annum. Therefore, this important city improvement, which had been delayed in consequence of the war, would at once be proceeded with, the town clerk having issued instructions to the officers responsible to pursue the necessary procedure with all possible despatch.

"The conditions of the loan are, I think, satisfactory in the extreme," concluded the Lord Mayor, who added that the council's financial advisers had expressed the view that the deal was a very good one from the council's point of view.

LAND PAMPHLETS.

BOOMING SUBDIVISIONS.

SEVERE CONDEMNATION.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Royal Commission inquiring into the question of closer settlement resumed its sittings to-day.

Thomas Kennedy, chairman of the Land Purchase Board, was examined concerning alleged inaccurate statements in pamphlets issued by his board in connection with the subdivision of estates. One member asserted that no land boomer would ever have been guilty of such outrageous statements.

Mr. Chatham, M.L.A., asked Kennedy who had been responsible for the statement appearing in the pamphlets issued in connection with the subdivision of the Oaklands Estate to the effect that the annual rainfall was 18 to 20 inches?

The witness replied that the responsibility rested with the board.

Mr. Chatham: Do you know that the official statistics show the average for the district to be only 14.21 inches?—If that is so, there is a discrepancy.

Mr. Chatham: But these discrepancies appear in every pamphlet issued in connection with these subdivisions.

Mr. Rees, M.L.C.: In fact, we have found that no land "boomer" in Victoria would make such outrageous statements as the Land Board have made.

Mr. Chatham: What would be the difference in the value of the land if the average rainfall were 18 to 20 inches instead of 14?—Witness: Very considerable.

Mr. Chatham: Then the people have been defrauded to a very considerable extent, and I think they have grounds for action against the board. It is stated in the pamphlet that water can be obtained at a reasonable depth by sinking. What grounds have you for saying that?—It has been obtained in the locality.

As a matter of fact, you have told people it can be obtained when you do not know whether it can be or not.

Mr. Rees: We have had complaints from everywhere that the pamphlets issued by the board are nothing but "lying jades." They are simply "boomsters'" pamphlets.

The chairman (Mr. Johnstone, M.L.A.): I should like to say in connection with the issue of these pamphlets that it has been proved to us beyond any doubt whatever that they have been very misleading regarding the description of the properties, the distances from railway stations, rainfall, and so on. The board must be held responsible for these inaccuracies, and I trust that in future care will be taken to restrict them to the truth.

Mr. Plain, M.L.A.: A lot of them seem to have been written by a showman rather than a Government officer.

INCOME TAX.

FILLING UP RETURNS.

SOME DIFFICULTIES EXPLAINED.

It is not surprising that taxpayers are in a fog about their income tax returns, for since this form of taxation was first introduced hardly a year has elapsed without some amendment of the law. Having once mastered the intricacies of the various Acts and Amending Acts, the taxpayer is never quite certain that there is not some other requirement that he knows naught of. What he is well aware of is that the Commissioners have ample power to tax him for the slightest slip; so he must be careful. It is well to understand right at the outset that the Commissioners are reasonable men, and that the Income Tax Act is administered in an able and impartial fashion. It is true that the Commissioners (or rather the Commissioner, for Mr. Whiddon alone is really responsible) seem to be unduly anxious to make taxpayers pay the last farthing that can be extracted from them. This is their mere duty. If they did less they would be recreant to their trust, and would rightly call upon their heads the severest condemnation from their superiors. At the same time the Commissioners use their wide powers with discretion, and we have not heard of a single case in which a fine has been imposed where it was not well deserved. So, in case of doubt, the public would do well to place frankly their position before the Commissioners, satisfied that they will get what cannot be better described than "a fair deal." Many of the difficulties under which taxpayers labour would disappear were they only to get a form and peruse the directions attached to it. Half the queries that are being daily put to us would require no elucidation were this simple precaution taken.

WHAT IS TAXABLE?

Income is not always what it seems, or what it used to be. Income under the Income Tax Acts means much more. It includes income proper, but it also embraces profits from the sale of lands and of shares, provided the land has been purchased within four years, and the shares within two years of the date of the first day of January of the year for which the return is made. For instance, if land had been purchased after January 1, 1912, and sold in 1914, any profit made must be regarded as income, and tax paid thereon, not at the ordinary rate, but at the higher rate, levied on income the product of property. So, with shares purchased after January 1, 1914. If a man has several land deals or several specs in shares, some resulting in a profit, and others in a loss, the losses may be set off against the profits. But this principle extends no further than losses of a class being deductable from profits of the same class. For instance, if a profit were made on the sale of land, and a loss on the sale of shares, the loss on the shares could not be set off against the profit on the land, so as to reduce the taxpayer's taxable income. Or take another case. A man who has a salary of £500 a year, and who buys a block of land, which he afterwards sells at a loss of £100, is not allowed to reduce his taxable income by the £100 loss to £400 less statutory exemptions. It seems a little one-sided, but that is the law. It is a case of heads the taxation commissioners win and tails they do not lose. If a man does a little dealing on his own account, if he buys a racehorse and sells it again, or purchases a motor car, and makes a profit on its disposal, he is taxable on the profit, as long as the horse or the motor car was sold for more than £50. If the amount involved were less then he escapes scot free.

WHAT IS INCOME?

All income so-called arising or accruing to any person wherever he resides from:—

(1) From any profession, trade, employment, or vocation, carried on in New South Wales, whether the same be carried on by such person or on his behalf wholly or in part by any other person.

(2) From any kind of property (inclusive of rents), or from any other source whatsoever in New South Wales, not included above.

(3) From the sale of any land, lease, or goodwill, provided such land, lease, or goodwill was acquired on or after January, 1910.

(4) From the sale of shares in any company, provided such shares were acquired on or after January 1, 1912.

(5) From the sale of any personal property of what kind soever, and of the value of £50 or upwards, provided such property was acquired on or after January 1, 1914.

It should specially noted that incomes arising from the following sources are subject to tax:—Grazing and farming of every description, whether the land used in this connection be Crown lease or freehold. Mining operations whether carried on on Crown or freehold lands. Rents of property, or from the use or ownership of land in any way. Income shall be deemed to have accrued to a person, although the same be not actually paid over to such person, but be credited in account, or re-invested, or accumulated, or capitalised, or otherwise dealt with in his name or interest or on his behalf.

WHO SHOULD FURNISH A RETURN?

The Commissioners may call upon anyone to furnish a return. To refuse to do so renders the delinquent liable to a fine of £100. But it would be manifestly ridiculous for those with, say, a salary of £50 a year to go through the needless formality of sending in a return, seeing that there is an exemption of £250, with a further exemption of £50 for each child under 18, wholly dependent upon the taxpayer. So the Commissioners do not ask anyone whose salary is less than £200 to bother. As to income, the product of property, the position is scarcely so clear. Here, for the most part, the Commissioners require returns. Where the sole income is a few pounds interest upon a Saving Bank deposit, they will not trouble, but it is well for the taxpayer not to be too certain. In case of doubt, the Commissioners should be asked as to what action should be pursued. Apart from these returns must be furnished:—

1. By every person carrying on any business, trade, or profession (inclusive of farming and grazing, or from the use or ownership of land), or deriving income in any way, or from any source, in New South Wales.

2. By the public officer of every company which for the time being is carrying on business in the State.

3. By every attorney or agent for any person who shall be permanently or temporarily absent from or resident out of the State, and have income from within the State.

4. By every trustee, executor, administrator, guardian, committee, or receiver, entitled for the time being to the receipt, management, disposal, or control of any income arising or accruing in the State.

5. By every agent, importer, or consignee, in respect to goods received on consignment from abroad for sale or disposal within the State.

6. By every person to whom particular notice shall be given by the Commissioners of Taxation requiring an income tax return.

DEDUCTIONS THAT ARE ALLOWED.

Not only is there the statutory exemption of £250, but other deductions are allowed. These may be summarised as follows:—

Losses, outgoings, including interest, commission, travelling expenses, discounts, and any other expense actually incurred in New South Wales by the taxpayer in the production of income subject to tax.

Rates and taxes, except Federal land tax and income tax.

Every premium or sum paid by the taxpayer on the insurance of his own life, or that of his wife, or for a deferred annuity or other provision for his wife or children, or in respect of any fidelity guarantee, or bond, which such taxpayer is required to provide for the exercise of his profession, trade, employment, or vocation. This deduction is limited to £50 in the aggregate.

A deduction of £50 for each child who is under the age of 18 years at January 1, 1915, and is wholly maintained by taxpayer.

Sums expended for repairs of premises occupied for the purpose of business or for repairs of premises producing income in respect of which income tax may be levied, and for the repair or alteration of machinery, implements, utensils, and articles employed by the taxpayer for the purposes of his business; cost of replacements, renewals, or permanent improvements, cannot, however, be made the subject of deduction.

Such sum as the Commissioners may think just and reasonable as representing the diminished value by reason of wear and tear during the year of any machinery, implements, plant, utensils, and articles used by the taxpayer for the purpose of his business.

GERMAN ATTACKS.

FRANCE AND POLAND.

STUBBORN ENEMY.

GERMANS LEAVE ITALY.

There has been lively fighting north-east of Soissons, on the Aisne and the Germans are making an important attack on one position, the result of which is not yet known.

The enemy is concentrating large forces eastward of Verdun, and 190,000 Germans are said to be massed at Metz.

The Germans claim that in the Argonne, since January 8, the French have lost 1900 killed and wounded, and 1600 prisoners.

In Poland the enemy continues a stubborn offensive in the endeavour to advance further towards Warsaw, but without effect.

The Austro-German forces eastward of Cracow are being gradually pushed back, according to private reports.

WESTERN FRONT.

IMPORTANT ATTACK.

RESULT NOT KNOWN.

PARIS, Jan. 13.

A communique states: North-east of Soissons throughout the whole night the enemy violently bombarded our positions on the plateau of Perrieres and the spur of a hill. At the latter point the enemy is making an important attack. The result is not yet known.

The rest of the front has been without incident.

GERMAN ARMY AT METZ.

FRENCH LOSSES IN ARGONNE.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12.

Strong German forces are concentrating near Spincourt (18 miles north-east of Verdun), and Briey. It is estimated that 120,000 are concentrated at Metz.

A German communique states: The French attacks at Crony, also east of Perthes, were repulsed with heavy losses.

We captured a French point of support in the Argonne. The French losses in the Argonne since the 8th are 1900 killed and wounded and 1600 taken prisoners.

French attacks south of Saint Mihiel failed.

WHEN WAR STARTED.

STORY OF THREE SIEGES.

PARIS, Jan. 13.

Escaped prisoners give some accounts of the capture of Montmedy, Charlemont, and Longwy early in the war. Big Austrian guns at a range of 7½ miles battered Fort Charlemont to pieces, and the garrison surrendered on September 1.

The Germans occupied Montmedy on August 29. The French previously destroyed their defences. They blew up stores and ammunition, also an important railway tunnel.

The bombardment of Longwy began on August 21. The buildings were soon afire, but the garrison resisted the attack for six days and nights, and only surrendered when the town was in ruins.

THE KARLSRUHE.

REPORTED SUNK.

SUPPOSED NAVAL FIGHT.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.

Private advices, which have not been confirmed, state that the German cruiser Karlsruhe (4832 tons) has been sunk in a fight by the British off Grenada (Windward Islands).

A lifebuoy marked "Karlsruhe" has been found on shore, also much wreckage. Residents at Grenada report that they saw a naval battle in progress at a great distance out to sea.

THE CRUISER BREMEN.

DAMAGED BY MINE.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 12.

The German protected cruiser Bremen (4200 tons) has arrived at Wilhelmshaven badly damaged by a mine.

BRITISH PRISONERS.

EXPERIENCE IN GERMANY.

LONDON, Jan. 13.

Five British army doctors have been released after five months' captivity at Magdeburg, including Doctors Austin and Elliott, members of the Red Cross, who were arrested in Belgium, where they intended to establish a hospital. They were court-martialled for espionage and sent to Cologne, where, after a fortnight's solitary confinement, they were re-tried several times, and sent to Torgau. They were subjected to insolent treatment at Cologne, and were poorly fed. They had a pleasanter experience at Torgau.

AUSTRALIANS WELL TREATED.

A correspondent of the "Times" points out that Germany has already given preferential treatment to colonial prisoners. A party of Australians were allowed to remain at their hotel, merely reporting themselves twice weekly.

WAR OF LIBERTY.

SIR GEORGE REID'S MESSAGE.

CAIRO, Jan. 13.

Sir George Reid, in a farewell letter, urged the Australian troops to back up the noble resolve of the whole Australian people, and remember that the liberties of mankind were involved as deeply as the name, fame, and welfare of Australia.

LEAVING ITALY.

GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS.

SIGNIFICANT ADVICE.

ROME, Jan. 13.

Large numbers of Germans and Austrians are leaving Rome under advice of their Home authorities.

The Italian war loan has been largely over-subscribed.

ROUMANIA.

EXPECTED TO START NEXT MONTH.

LONDON, Jan. 13.

The "Times" correspondent at Sofia says Roumania is expected to begin action in Transylvania in the middle of February.

IN POLAND.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE.

STUBBORN, BUT FUTILE.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 13.

A communique states: The Germans continue ineffectively a stubborn offensive in the Sukha-Mogbely district (north-east of Skierniewice). Six attacks were repulsed.

The Russian scouts on some parts of the front threw grenades into the German trenches, inflicting heavy losses. The Germans left 500 dead at Samice on the night on January 10.

Private advices regarding the fighting east of Cracow are satisfactory, showing that the Germans and Austrians are being pushed gradually back towards Czenstochowa.

EAST PRUSSIA.

The Germans are using ice-breakers on the Masurian Lakes (East Prussia) to enable gunboats to operate, also to prevent the passage of the Russians over the ice.

THE GERMAN REPORT.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12.

A German communique states: The Russian offensive in North Poland failed. Our attacks west of the Vistula are progressing despite the weather.

AUSTRIAN ARMY.

MASSING AGAINST SERVIA.

LONDON, Jan. 12.

The Milan correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" states that the Austrians in Bukovina were driven out of their camp at Kimpolung in great disorder.

Many refugees and soldiers in a famished condition have been interned in Roumania. Most of them had been hastily enrolled, and were supplied with obsolete weapons, while they had only a fortnight's training.

They say the Austrians are moving fresh forces from Hungary to strengthen the Roumanian frontier. The remnant of the Bukovina army is massed at Dorx.

Austria is massing a further 300,000 men against Servia, who are joining 60,000 Germans at Sarajevo.

DISEASE IN VIENNA.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 13.

Vienna reports state that there have been serious outbreaks of smallpox, cholera, and typhoid at the capital. A great number of refugees from Bukovina, of whom a thousand are on the verge of starvation, are flocking to Vienna.

SARYKAMISH.

TURKISH DENIALS.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 13.

Turkish headquarters deny the defeat at Sarykamish. It is alleged that operations were delayed by snow, and that the Russians merely attacked and captured a transport of Turkish wounded.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE CHECKED.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 13.

The Turks assembled about 100,000 men, mainly officered by Germans, at Karaugau, checking the Russian advance on the threshold of Ottoman territory.

NOURY BEY CAPTURED.

The Sultan sent Noury Bey, chief of the General Staff of the Third Ottoman Army, to investigate the cause of the Turkish defeat at Sarykamish. The Cossacks captured Noury Bey at Karaugan.

THE BRESLAU'S BLUNDER.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 13.

A curious evidence of the Turkish fleet's activity was shown by the Breslau bombarding positions of the Turkish troops near Chopa. The Russians thus occupied the positions the Turks were forced by their own guns to evacuate.

The Russians destroyed several Turkish vessels in the Riza district.

CARDINAL MERCIER.

POPE ASKS REPARATION.

ROME, Jan. 12.

The Vatican has asked Germany for an explanation of the seizure of the Pope's letters to Cardinal Mercier, besides an explanation of the latter's arrest.

PRIESTS AND THE PASTORAL.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12.

Roman Catholic organs state that many priests in the Malines diocese have refused to obey the German interdiction of Cardinal Mercier's pastoral, declaring that they will obey Cardinal Mercier alone.

AIRMAN'S PLEASANTRY.

"GOOD AFTERNOON, POINCARE."

PARIS, Jan. 13.

President Poincare was at Dunkirk when the German air raid on that place was made.

The German airman was evidently informed as to the time of President Poincare's arrival, for he threw down a weighted streamer with the inscription on it, "Good afternoon, Poincare."

THE FRENCH ADVANCE.

The above is a map of the "lost provinces" of Alsace and Lorraine, and of the country in France adjacent thereto. In this region there has been a good deal of fighting lately, as at Flirey, near Pont-a-Mousson, which is situated on the French side of the Lorraine border, and at Steinbach, Cernay, and Burnhaupt, near Mulhausen, in Southern Alsace. The French have been gradually advancing in this region.

GERMANY RESOLVED

TO SEE IT THROUGH.

BRITAIN'S ALLEGED AIMS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.

General von Moltke, in the course of an interview at Berlin, said that Russia and France had entered Britain's service. The latter was aiming at the extermination of German shipping, commerce, and industry.

"Germany," he added, "has 3,000,000 more soldiers, and the war will last till the enemy has had enough. Everybody—prince and pauper—is filled with a determination to stick it out at any price."

TO THE LAST MAN.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 13.

While some German newspapers gravely ask their readers to believe that London is in reduced straits, there has been generally a marked change in the tone of the German press.

Professor Pariseval, in an article in the "Cologne Gazette," says "if Germany is defeated it is impossible that she can pay an indemnity, because the last man will have fallen exhausted, and the last penny will have been spent. This must be made clear to Germany's enemies."

OFFENSIVE NOW BROKEN.

PARIS, Jan. 13.

A high personage at Berlin informed a Copenhagen correspondent that German governing circles recognise that the German offensive has been definitely broken. Germany has still considerable resources and men, but is not powerful enough to undertake a new victorious offensive.

The public is still kept in ignorance of the real state of affairs.

ENGLAND'S PART.

A REMARKABLE EFFORT.

PARIS, July 13.

The London correspondent of the "Temps" considers that England has made a remarkable effort in provisioning an army of half a million, also in supplying the needs of the army in Egypt and Mesopotamia, and furnishing the Allies with everything their industries, crippled by mobilisation or invasion, were unable to supply. This is described as a veritable tour de force which no other country could have achieved.

COST OF WAR.

DAMAGE IN BELGIUM.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 13.

"Vorwaerts" estimates that the daily cost of war to all belligerents aggregates £9,600,000.

The damage done to Belgium property is estimated at £206,000,000, and that done in East Prussia at £2,000,000.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

LONDON, Jan. 12.

The steamer City of Agra, which left Sydney on November 19, has arrived at London.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

LONDON, Jan. 12.

Three hundred and sixty five boxes of butter, the gift of Victorian manufacturers, have been distributed among the London hospitals, where wounded soldiers are being treated.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12.

The report of a large fire in Brussels was due to the burning of the great Antwerp Oilworks, a biscuit factory, and 12 houses. The fire is supposed to be due to an airman's bomb.

CAIRO, Jan. 12.

Mr. Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand, has sailed for England.

UNITED STATES.

CRITICS FROM WITHIN.

INDIFFERENCE TO BELGIUM.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.

Vigorous criticism is appearing in certain New York and Chicago Republican newspapers attacking President Wilson for disgracing America's name in Europe through supineness while Belgium was outraged and destroyed contrary to the Hague Treaties, to which the United States was signatory, but launching an immediate protest with Britain when a few hundred thousand dollars of American commerce was delayed by the British fleet, which apparently had good grounds for investigating cargoes.

The Chicago "Tribune" bitterly assails the Administration, accusing it of ignominously running away when a protest might have been effective in Belgium's case, but immediately recovering courage when the copper kings' profits were endangered.

Other newspapers point out how ill Mr. Bryan's peace treaties consort with the United States' own disregard of the Hague's solemn covenants.

PRO-GERMAN PROPAGANDA.

LONDON, Jan. 13.

The "Times" correspondent at Washington says German propagandists are showing great activity over Sir Edward Grey's reply to the United States Note. They are flooding the newspapers with arguments showing that Britain's sea domination is worse for America than German militarism.

EXPORTS TO NEUTRALS.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 12.

The Scandinavian figures mentioned in Sir Edward Grey's reply to the Note caused a public sensation. The newspapers demand the publication of detailed statistics.

The Foreign Office explains that in 1914 many articles came direct instead of via Hamburg. They are also now compelled to purchase from America many goods formerly bought from belligerent nations.

WAR NOTES.

WAITING.

"Lively fighting" is reported around Soissons, where the Germans are making an important attack, and at other places in the western theatre of the war. But just at present the operations appear to be of an isolated kind. Here and there we have a slight advance; here and there a check; but, generally speaking, both sides seem to be playing a waiting game. The weather is not in favour of fighting on a big scale, for one thing. But we read of the Germans concentrating at Spincourt, 18 miles north-east of Verdun, and at Briey, and we are told that they have already concentrated 120,000 men at Metz, the Lorraine capital. This would seem to indicate that a big attack will be made on Verdun before very long. The French have already gained a footing in Alsace, and were recently pressing on towards Lorraine, for there was fighting the other day at Flirey, near Pont-a-Mousson. But their repulse at St. Mihiel, as now reported, indicates a failure to hold the advantage they gained in that region. As we shall have to wait for the spring for operations on a grand scale it is gratifying to know that it suits us to wait better than it does the Germans. It will not be very long, judging by recent events, before the Russians will be advancing through Silesia towards Breslau—towards Berlin—and the Germans will require to throw a tremendous force against them. When that time comes we may expect to see the Allies in the west—reinforced by many thousands of troops—adopting a bold offensive. Till then we must be content to wait.

"TO THE LAST MAN."

But it is going to be a long and difficult job. We may gather that from such utterances as that of the German professor who has just said that if Germany should be defeated she will not be able to pay any indemnity, because she will have fought "to the last man and the last penny." We must not take too seriously such statements as that which is said to have been made by a high German personage to a Copenhagen correspondent—that the German governing circles recognise that the German offensive has been definitely broken, and that they are not powerful enough to undertake a new and victorious offensive.

BRITAIN'S TOUR-DE-FORCE.

When war broke out Mr. Kaufman, a well-known American writer, who chanced to be in England at the time, wrote a memorable article, giving his impressions of the English people, and the way they received the news. It stands as one of the finest tributes to British character that has ever been penned. There was no panic, no running this way and that. Some excitement, of course, there was, but through it all he saw, as never before, the great, calm strength of a mighty nation made suddenly manifest. The Irish question, the labour troubles, all internal dissensions, vanished on the instant, and the great British nation made ready as one man to meet the foe. And now, more than five months after the commencement of the war, the London correspondent of the Paris "Temps" gives his impression of England. He refers to England's "remarkable effort in improvising an army of half a million, and also in supplying the needs of the army in Egypt and Mesopotamia, and furnishing her Allies with everything they require." It is, he adds, a veritable tour-de-force which no other country could have achieved. In Belgium, in France, in Russia, we find industries crippled by mobilisation or invasion; with the exception of the Lancashire cotton mills, where temporary dislocation prevails, England goes on her accustomed way, with her mills and factories all open. Indeed, in many of the industries, business is brisker than it was before the war. This applies particularly, of course, to those establishments which are called upon to supply the needs of the British and allied armies and navies; and in some of them the demand for labour is greater than the supply. Herein is one of the strange anomalies of the war—there are men in England who are being asked by the authorities not to go to the front. Their services are more important at home; they can fight the enemy better by staying in England, just going on with their work.

CAN AMERICA REMAIN NEUTRAL?

Is the United States going to remain out of this war? Can she remain neutral? Can she continue to look on at Germany's violation of the rules of civilised warfare, and her disregard of the Hague treaties, to which the United States was a party? These questions are being asked not only in other countries, but they are being asked, with growing insistence, in America itself. President Wilson is being attacked by the newspapers for "disgracing America's name" through his supineness while Belgium was being outraged and destroyed, in defiance of the Hague treaties, and launching an immediate protest at Great Britain when some American merchants are in danger of losing a few hundred thousand dollars. And the papers do not stop there; they add that "apparently the British fleet had good grounds for investigating the cargoes." That the interests of some copper or cotton king should be held to be of more importance than the flouting of solemn international conventions, and the invasion and ruthless destruction of Belgium and its people is hardly in accordance with the sense of the great bulk of the American people. Then how long will America remain neutral? This is a fight to a finish to decide whether or not the mailed fist of Prussian autocracy is to rule the world, and whatever America's views on the point may be, there is no doubt what Britain means to do. Indeed, a notable American, in the person of Mr. Joseph Choate, formerly Ambassador in London, has stated Britain's intention: Never to submit or yield, and never to make peace, until the devil of militarism is so vanquished that it will never trouble the earth again. "I have just signed another arbitration treaty, making twenty-one," said Mr. W. J. Bryan, Secretary of State, recently to Mr. Harold Begbie. "But what's it worth?" said Mr. Begbie; "'it's only a scrap of paper." Mr. Bryan would do well to remember the German Chancellor's astonishment on learning that Great Britain was going to fight "just for a word—'neutrality'; just for a scrap of paper."

BERNSTORFF'S FAILURE.

No department of Germany's foreign relations, it is said, lies closer to the heart of the Emperor than his "American policy;" and we have seen since the war began with what assiduity his Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, has sought to secure America's goodwill. But he does not appear to have made a brilliant success of it. He has gone about his task in the real Prussian way, and has brought all sorts of charges against the allies who are arrayed against Germany—the use of dum-dum bullets manufactured in the United States, and all the rest of it—but he has overreached himself. He has no pangs of conscience—"pangs of conscience are indecent," wrote Nietzsche—and a little departure from the truth now and then does not hurt him; but he has failed to "make good" in German eyes. Bernstorff is the kind of envoy who believes in laying his cards on the table. He is not afraid to talk, and he does not transact diplomatic business with a dark lantern. That is why, up till the war, he had won the respect of the Americans. He was born in London, and talks English gracefully. From the moment he set foot on American soil he began to cut his cloth according to the American measure. He even has an American wife, and he was said to be a zealous friend of the English-speaking race as a whole. He is an LL.D. of nine leading American institutions of learning—a man of "culture." But the war came, and it has left him, like a wrecked ship, high and dry on the rocks. Recently, according to the Philadelphia "Public Ledger," he assured the American public that Germany would have a perfect right to invade Canada, and that such a course would not be a violation of the Monroe Doctrine. "This, happily, is an academic question," says the "Ledger." "What the United States would do were the Germans to attempt to subjugate Canada is a bridge we need not cross until we come to it. Just at present there is only a remote possibility that the Germans will be in a position to execute any such design against the peace of the Eastern Hemisphere. Great Britain still is in command of the sea, and the Germans have their hands full at present with problems nearer home. It is unfortunate that the German Ambassador should have thought it necessary to raise the question at this time. For several weeks the country has had repose from his misdirected activities, apparently designed to embroil the United States with the belligerents in the old world, and there was some hope that he or his diplomatic superiors had recognised the impropriety of his active participation in the German press campaign."

BACILLI AND BULLETS.

Shot and shell are accounting for thousands of lives in the great war. How many men are going down before the ravages of disease? From the west and from the east the Germans have suffered greatly from cholera and typhoid, and serious outbreaks of smallpox, cholera, and typhoid are reported among the Austrians. There were 22,000 lives lost in the South African war, and the bullets accounted for only 8000 and the bacilli for 14,000. And what was that war compared with this, in which the combatants number something like 20,000,000 men? The Japanese went into the campaign against Russia armed against bacilli as well as bullets, and the result was that the percentage of deaths from disease was the lowest ever recorded in a great war. One disease above all others has proved most fatal in modern warfare, and that is enteric, or typhoid fever. It has killed thousands before they ever got to the fighting line, as the United States troops in the Spanish-American war have reason to know. The efficiency of our troops in the field will be increased one-third if they can escape enteric. That is why all our men are vaccinated before they leave for the front.

RECRUITING.

SIX HUNDRED MEN IN THREE DAYS.

APPEAL FOR SEA KITS.

Since the appointment of Major M. N. Boam as supervising enrolling officer, Staff-Sergeant Major H. M. Scott has been able to devote his time to recruiting. The week has been a busy one. Yesterday's total was just on to 200, which makes the record for three days of the week over 600. It looks, therefore, as if this week's total will equal that of the preceding one, when nearly 1000 men were enlisted.

The volunteers are men of the right stamp. City artisans, as well as bushmen, are being accepted. The enrolling officers satisfy themselves that the men look suitable, leaving it to the medical practitioners to find out any physical defects.

A plan has been devised to prevent any imposition. On presenting themselves for the medical test, the men are called upon to sign a book, and that signature is thereupon compared with the signature of their application form. An effective check is, therefore, placed upon a healthy man handing over his certificate to others who could not pass the doctor.

The appeal for sea kits has already brought in 400. Major Page, the A.Q.M.G., anticipates that about 1000 per month will be required during the continuance of the war.

Colonel Holmes, brigadier of the Australian naval and military expedition, is expected to return to Sydney shortly with some men who have been on service in the Tropics.

The benefit of the terms of capitulation of the German islands in the Pacific is to be extended to 30 German officials, who have booked passages by the Sonoma, leaving on Saturday for San Francisco.

FIELD SERVICE TENTS.

The Salvation Army has a field service tent at Liverpool, capable of accommodating 1500 men. There is a reading and writing compartment, in which all requisites are supplied. Meetings are held, and special musical evenings arranged as frequently as possible, also indoor games, such as draughts, chess, rope quoits, bobs, miniature rifle ranges, etc. An officer has been appointed to see to the needs of the men—posting letters, looking after their interests, helping the sick, and generally doing all in his power for their welfare. Funds are needed to enable the army to carry on. Subscriptions will be received by Lieutenant-Colonel Birkenshaw, 73 Goulburn-street, Sydney.

The Y.M.C.A. has a field service tent at the Light Horse camp at Holsworthy. It is filled each evening after the soldiers have finished their daily routine. A correspondent says:—"It is here that the stranger among strangers meets with the hand of goodfellowship, and here it is that all classes and creeds find rest, recreation, and amusement. Of course this tent cannot be maintained by the fresh air that surrounds it, and to keep it up to the standard it has set, it must have a little solid help. The boys themselves do their little bit, but it is of a necessity only a very little bit, as the majority here have dependents on them, and consequently have but little to give. The majority of the parents, etc., of the soldiers, I think, would only be too glad to send along a few shillings as a little grateful offering for the comforts that have been given their boys."

PROGRESS.

LORD KITCHENER'S SPEECH.

CONFIDENT TONE.

Details of the general statement on the military situation delivered by the Secretary of State for War, Earl Kitchener, in the House of Lords on November 26, are to hand. He emphasised the fact that the time was coming when they would require more recruits.

"Since I last addressed your Lordships," he said, "on the general military situation, there have been certain important changes in the scene and scope of the operations on the Continent, and, at the risk of repeating what is already common knowledge, I think it may not be undesirable if I briefly allude to some of the salient features of the campaign since early in October. In France a German army was then attempting an outflanking movement to the north of the French lines, and our troops were being transferred to the left flank of the French forces in order to prevent the enemy from pushing west, and thus threatening Dunkirk and Calais. The Germans were also besieging Antwerp, and, owing to the overwhelming superiority of their heavy artillery, which had been brought into action against that place, it soon became manifest that the comparatively out-of-date fortifications of Antwerp would not be able to resist much longer, and though the fall of the town was delayed, and the gallant Belgian garrison was safely removed by British efforts, Antwerp was occupied by the Germans on October 9. With their flank and rear thus secured, it is clear that the German forces were pushed rapidly forward in considerable strength, their objective being to capture the northern coast of France. But the delay which had been caused in the release of the besieging forces in front of Antwerp just gave time for Sir John French, by a bold forward movement, and by taking up an extended position from La Bassee to Dixmude, to meet this German movement and prevent the Germans from obtaining their objective. At this period Sir John French's force was increased by the infantry and a cavalry division from England. Very severe fighting took place for several days, as the Germans, in considerably superior forces, vigorously attacked our left line of defence. As an instance, I may state that our cavalry divisions, extended for seven miles of front in trenches, threw back the fierce attacks of a whole German army corps for more than two days. (Cheers.) The arrival of the Indian divisions on the scene was of great assistance to Sir John French, and, with French reinforcements being pushed up to the front, the Germans gradually realised that their public boast to advance to Calais resembled closely their statement with regard to Paris.

FRENCH AND BELGIAN ARMIES.

"During all this time the long line from Lille to Verdun was maintained intact by our French Allies against constant attacks from the German forces. (Cheers.) The French Army have shown the greatest tenacity and endurance, and have displayed the highest fighting qualities in thus defending their positions against any advance of the Germans. (Cheers.) For, although they have made notable advances at various points, they have never yielded up a yard of their country since I last addressed your Lordships. On our left the gallant Belgian Army held the line from Dixmude to the sea, and fought with their well-known pluck, throwing back vigorous and incessant attacks on their positions. Their fine resistance was supported with energy by the co-operation of our Fleet, which effectively shelled the German positions within range of our guns. (Cheers.) Through the whole of the period I am now reviewing the Belgian Army have been constantly led on the field by their King, who, though hard pressed, has never yet left Belgian territory, and does not intend to do so. (Cheers.) Sir John French's successful resistance to the German advance was maintained notwithstanding German supports being pushed up in large numbers. At this time no less than 11 corps were attacking his position. On November 11 a supreme effort was made by the Germans, the Prussian Guard being ordered to force its way through our lines at all costs, and to carry them by sheer weight of numbers. But this desperate attempt failed, as had failed its predecessors. (Cheers.) General Joffre having sent up strong reinforcements, a considerable portion of the British trenches in front of Ypres was taken over by them, and the British front being thus appreciably shortened, our troops—which for over fourteen days and nights had never left the trenches, and never allowed the enemy to sustain a footing in them—have been enabled to enjoy a partial, but most certainly well-earned, rest. (Cheers.)

GERMANS IN POLAND.

"There have been two other prominent changes in the military situation which I should like to bring to your Lordships' notice—the advance of Russia, and the entrance of Turkey into the field against the Allies. Early in October the Russian Army was massing on the lines of the Vistula and San. The Germans were invading Poland from Silesia, and about October 11 had reached the neighbourhood of Warsaw. The Russian Army then took the offensive with overwhelming force, and drove the Germans back to their frontier, a distance of about 123 miles. Recently, by making use of their strategic railways, and massing troops in the neighbourhood of the fortress of Thorn, the Germans were able to bring a preponderating force to bear upon the Russian right flank on the Vistula, causing them to retire. After a hotly-contested battle, the reinforced Russian troops in this neighbourhood have been able to check and defeat the Germans, with, I believe, heavier losses than they have ever sustained before. (Cheers.) In the meantime, the Russian advance on Cracow and in the Carpathian Mountains has been uninterrupted, and has driven the Austrian forces before it. (Cheers.)

ACTION OF TURKEY.

"At the end of October, without any warning, Turkey violated her neutrality by suddenly bombarding Odessa and other Black Sea ports. Previous to this she had already massed troops in order to invade Egypt, and armed Bedouins had crossed our frontier. We are now in touch with the advanced parties of the Turkish forces about thirty miles east of the Suez Canal. On the declaration of war by Turkey the Russian armies in the Caucasus immediately took the offensive, and they are now successfully advancing on Erzerum. (Cheers.) Fighting is also now going on in the mountainous district in the neighbourhood of Van. The hostile action of Turkey has further induced us to send an Indian expedition against the Turkish provinces at the northern end of the Persian Gulf. This force has twice met and twice defeated the Turkish troops, and has occupied the important town of Busra. (Cheers.) Active operations are also going on in South and East Africa.

PUBLICATION OF NEWS.

"This short summary of recent military events gives me the opportunity to say that the Government desire to keep back nothing from the public that cannot be utilised to advantage by our enemies. It is not always easy to decide what information may or may not be dangerous, and whenever there is any doubt we do not hesitate to prevent publication. (Hear, hear.) It must be remembered that in this war our troops form part of a much larger force engaged in the same campaign, and the dissemination of news in regard to one part of the forces must affect the whole. It is, therefore, the Commander-in-Chief of the whole Allied Army, General Joffre—(cheers)—who is the man responsible in this and every other matter connected with the operations of the army in the field. And I feel it the strongest possible way that it is my duty loyally to co-operate with him, and to see that his wishes are carried out. (Hear, hear.)

THE NEED FOR MORE MEN.

"Your Lordships may very reasonably expect a word from me as to the preparations that are being made for prosecuting the war, in addition to keeping up the forces we now have in the field. The difficulties with which the War Office has had to contend are many and various, but I may confidently say that they are being met and dealt with in a more satisfactory manner than at first thought possible. (Cheers.) We feel strongly that our soldiers have a right to be placed in the field, provided with all the material of war which modern conditions demand—fully equipped as well as efficiently trained. (Hear, hear.) The wastage of the fighting force naturally demands a large stock of men on which to draw, but, although the number of casualties reported is heavy, our actual losses are relatively low, and it must not be forgotten that wounded officers and men returning to the front are the more valuable from having learnt the caution born of experience, which adds to the qualifications of the bravest soldier who is taking part in such a campaign as this. (Hear, hear.) As regards numbers, there are real need and ample room for all the men who are ready to come forward and serve their country, and when further special calls are made on the manhood of England, I am confident they will be responded to, as before, in a manner and in a spirit which will ensure the prosecution of the war to its successful conclusion." (Cheers.)

THE SNOW CASE.

ALLEGED TRADING WITH ENEMY.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

There seems no end to the store of documents for examination in the Snow case. Accused stands charged on the information of the Acting Collector of Customs (Mr. A. C. Throlfall), with having unlawfully endeavoured to procure copper ore for the firm of Aron Hirsch and Son, Halberstadt, Germany, alien enemies. The counsel engaged are Mr. E. E. Cleland, K.C., with Mr. F. V. Smith and Mr. C. H. Powers for the prosecution; and Sir Josiah Symon, K.C., Mr. A. W. Piper, K.C., and Mr. W. A. Norman for the accused.

Major J. J. Hughes again entered the witness-box to identify various documents as they were put in, and which he had seized at Snow's office. About 30 minutes were occupied by the reading of the power of attorney granted by Aron Hirsch and Son to Snow with respect to an agreement entered into by the firm with the Zinc Corporation for the sale of zinc concentrates produced at Broken Hill and the agreement itself. This latter document was dated March 13, 1906.

The Magistrate: What is the term of this agreement?

Mr. Smith: I suppose it is in the body of the matter.

The Magistrate: Was it not suspended at the outbreak of the war?

Sir Josiah Symon: It did disappear, of course.

Mr. Smith: It purported to disappear, but did not. There was a great parade of the breaking off of the contract, but an attempt was made to carry it out by means of various subterfuges and stratagems.

Sir Josiah Symon: Where is the proof of any such thing?

Mr. Smith: All this talk about fairplay is very cheap. The prosecution has been scrupulously fair all along.

A power of attorney granted by Hirsch to Snow in respect to the agreement between the Broken Hill Proprietary Block 10, Ltd., and Hirsch and Son was next put in. The agreement was in regard to sales from January 1, 1906, to December 31, 1906.

Sir Josiah Symon: How can this document have any bearing on the charge relating to attempted trading with the enemy when the agreement expired in 1906.

Mr. Cleland: The documents show that the power of attorney is to remain in force until the death of the members of the Hirsch firm or its revocation. The power of attorney is not restricted to the agreement.

The Magistrate: I will accept it, subject to it being shown that the agreement and power of attorney were in force later on.

An agreement between the Wallaroo and Moonta Company and Hirsch was at this stage put in.

Sir Josiah Symon: What has this to do with the case?

Mr. Cleland: My learned friend has forgotten the correspondence which shows that accused was anxious to retain control of the copper in Australia, and that Merton's group were jealous of this control. The motive was to retain control of the copper, including the business relations of those companies with Hirsch.

Sir Josiah Symon: I have no doubt that when war broke out Snow was desirous of securing to himself the handling of the whole copper produce of Australia, but that does not say any attempt was made to trade with Hirsch.

Mr. Smith: But the power of attorney has been put in. The agreement was accepted.

SEPARATION.

A NORTH COAST MOVEMENT

UNFAIR TREATMENT ALLEGED.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

The largest and most representative public meeting known in Grafton for many years unanimously affirmed on Thursday night last (January 7):—

That, in the opinion of this meeting, the time has arrived when the question of the separation of the northern portion of the State of New South Wales into a separate State, either alone or in connection with the southern portion of Queensland, should be considered by the people of the territory interested; and, with a view of giving effect to the resolution, a committee be appointed to investigate the whole question, and confer with other portions of the North Coast and tableland and Queensland.

The unjustifiable removal of the ferry steamer from Grafton is not the reason for the inauguration of the separation movement. It is merely the "last straw," the climax to a long series of injustices and neglect meted out by the Governments of New South Wales—and more particularly the M'Gowen and Holman Governments—to the districts watered by the three northern rivers, the Clarence, Richmond, and Tweed. I will deal briefly with the ferry question later on, but will first adduce some of the instances which are quoted locally to prove the charge of injustice and neglect. The North Coast Railway, for example, was to be finished in five years. It has been in progress about seven years, and will probably take another seven to finish. The most difficult section of all, No. 8, from Glenreagh to Coff's Harbour, has not had one day's work done on it. It is true that the first four or five sections have been completed, and are in use, but they are on the Sydney end of the line, and have only been given special consideration because, like all the other railways in New South Wales, they mean so much more trade poured into Sydney's rapacious maw. The main purpose of this great railway was to open up and more thoroughly develop the most fertile districts of the State, and to give a shorter means of communication between the various State capitals than the New England-Darling Downs route afforded, but they have been subordinated to the all-for-Sydney policy, if not lost sight of altogether. This is proved by the ignoring of the Works Committee's recommendation that the line should be simultaneously commenced at various points along the route, where the several rivers were crossed. Had this been done the country lying back from each river would have been opened up for settlement, the line would probably have been finished by now, and many hundreds of thousands of pounds would have been saved. As it is, bits have been done here and there, which cannot be joined up for years yet, and all the time interest is accruing on borrowed capital sunk in the work, and lying absolutely idle. The Dorrigo railway is another case in point. This line has been definitely promised for many years, but it is only within the past few weeks that a start has been made, and the work so far is restricted to clearing the scrub off the proposed route. Meanwhile the settlers attracted there by the promise of the railway have grown heartsick with hope deferred, and scores have been ruined through the lack of outlet to a market for their produce. More than enough valuable timber has been burned on the Dorrigo to have paid for the railway twice over.

The story of the much-needed harbour works at the Clarence entrance is an amazing one. For years this immense district has asked for the extension of the northern breakwater—in accordance with the late Sir John Coode's plans—which all the experts are agreed is essential to the improvement of the entrance and without which the trade of this river cannot progress at anything like the rate it otherwise would. Several years ago the Works Committee, on the casting vote of the chairman, reported adversely. After more years of agitation another inquiry was held, and this time the committee decided to recommend the work. Then Mr. Griffith intervened, and peremptorily vetoed the committee's recommendation. He had another scheme, he said—viz., to extend the breakwater only one-third the distance the committee recommended, and to blow up the rocky reef across the entrance; which the department had hitherto always refused to have done, when it was asked for locally. The reef was to be done at once, and the minor extension scheme was to be referred again to the Public Works Committee, whom the Minister has persistently flouted in regard to North Coast works. But the years flit by, and nothing whatever is done. At the commencement of this summer the Minister was repeatedly asked to sanction the dredging of the channel leading to Yamba, the holiday seaside resort (at the Clarence entrance) of the many thousands of people in this and the tableland districts, but the requests were all flatly refused, notwithstanding that the Minister knew perfectly well that his refusal meant depriving the public here of the spell at the seaside which is essential in such a hot climate as Grafton possesses. The only public works to the credit of the Labour Government in this district during their four and a quarter years of office are the Grafton water supply and the Grafton High School. As for the latter, it may be pointed out that the High School course is certainly being carried on, but under extreme disadvantages, in a very moderate building. The new building, which is to shelter the staff and pupils some day, is being slowly proceeded with, and will probably take another year to complete; while the Orange High School, inaugurated at the same time as Grafton's has for many months past been conducted in its new building. Comparisons of this kind are inevitable, and irrefutable. As for the water supply, the people of this district have ultimately to pay for it, so there is not much compliment in that. But it might be pointed out, as Alderman (Dr.) Page did when moving the separation resolution, that, had the water supply bill not been shelved by Mr. Griffith in the closing hours of the final session in the Parliament before last—when millions of pounds worth of public works in other parts of the State were hurriedly pushed through—the pipes would have been made before the Lithgow strike occurred, the scheme would have been completed long ago, and about £15,000 in the total cost saved.

When we turn to the Richmond and Tweed districts, the tale of neglect becomes even worse. It would be fairly safe to challenge the present Government to name one solitary public work that has been carried out there during its four and quarter years of office. The story of the "missing link" at the Tweed—the 20 miles of railway necessary to connect the New South Wales and Queensland systems—is one of the most shameful in this State's history. It is well known that Queensland was induced to build its line from Brisbane to the border—and to provide for its conversion later to the New South Wales standard gauge, too, remember—by a distinct promise that New South Wales would build the missing 20 miles on this side. That promise was made 14 years ago, but has never been kept. Lismore has been asking for a High School for years, and is still asking. The Richmond, like the Clarence, also has a half-finished harbour works scheme at its entrance, but nothing has been done to it for years, and the plant which was there was carted away, by Mr. Griffith's orders, to Coff's Harbour, where a lot of the State's good money is being spent in an endeavour to make a harbour—an endeavour which many predict is foredoomed to failure. The Richmond and Tweed also want railway connection with the tableland at Tenterfield, and have been working for it for a generation, but always without success. They are now living in hopes of another inquiry by the Works Committee, but, in the light of past experience, there is very little to be hoped for, even if the committee recommends the project. There is no guarantee that Mr. Griffith will not step in and veto it as he has done before with other schemes. These are some of the grievances which the North Coast people have against the New South Wales Government. There are many others, such as the refusal to improve Byron Bay (or at least to build the much-needed new jetty there), the failure to deal with the ever-growing menace of the water hyacinth pest, the Minister's arbitrary treatment of the shires in the matter of the subsidy, and the much-discussed main roads grant, etc.

Grafton, further, has another broken Ministerial promise, which it cannot forget. Mr. Flowers, Minister for Health, visited this city a few years back, inspected the district hospital, admitted the need for enlargement and improvement of the buildings, praised the committee for their zeal in collecting data regarding up-to-date structures of this nature, chided them on their modesty when they asked for £5000, delighted them with a definite promise that he would place £6000 on the next Estimates for Grafton Hospital, and urged them to have plans prepared at once. On the same trip, at Kempsey, he promised the Macleay district a new hospital. That has been built, and was officially opened a month or two ago by Mr. Flowers. All Grafton has got up to now are the plans, for which the committee paid. There has never been the slightest attempt on the Minister's part to honour his promise of the £6000. Meanwhile the hospital staff has an ever-increasing number of patients to cope with in a building that was disgracefully overcrowded at the time Mr. Flowers was here, and which becomes more so with the passing of every year.

WHEAT SEIZURE.

INJUNCTION APPLICATION.

HEARING AT MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Interstate Commission to-day resumed the hearing of an application by the Commonwealth for an interim injunction to restrain the Government of New South Wales from selling or holding wheat the subject matter of a plaint. Only two members of the Commission—the chairman (Mr. A. B. Piddington, K.C.) and Mr. Lockyer—were present, Mr. Swinburne being absent on account of serious illness in his family. Professor Harrison Moore, Mr. R. R. Garran, and Mr. Ian Macfarlan represented the Commonwealth; and Mr. D. J. Dethbridge, instructed by the Crown Solicitor of Victoria, represented the Government of New South Wales. Mr. A. G. M. Pitt instructed by Messrs. Dibbs, Parker, and Parker, of Sydney, applied for leave to be represented in the proceedings on behalf of the Farmers and Settlers' Association of New South Wales.

Mr. Pitt, on the suggestion of Mr. Piddington, applied for leave to intervene. The leave was granted.

Mr. Lethbridge said that he was instructed to urge that the matter be disposed of as soon as possible, and the hearing be at Sydney on the 18th inst.

Mr. Pitt stated that Mr. Knox and Mr. Campbell had been retained by the Farmers and Settlers' Association, and he asked that as much time as possible be allowed in which to prepare their case.

Mr. Garran said that every day's delay meant a lot to many people interested. In the public interests he did not feel justified in not pressing for the earliest possible date being fixed.

The chairman announced that the Court had decided to fix the hearing for Monday, the 18th inst., at 10.30 a.m., in Melbourne.

Mr. Garran pressed for an injunction to prohibit the State of New South Wales from selling any of the wheat mentioned in the petition.

Mr. Dethbridge said that such an injunction was unnecessary, as he had received a telegram from the New South Wales Government to the effect that it undertook not to dispose of any of the wheat referred to until the conclusion of the hearing.

Mr. Garran stated that he had been informed that some of the wheat was being shipped to New Zealand.

The chairman thought that in the face of the undertaking given by the State, the Commonwealth should not press in regard to the injunction.

Mr. Garran agreed with this, and the Court was then adjourned till Monday next.

REPORT DENIED.

Referring to the report that a farmer residing in the Glen Innes district had been prevented by the police from selling his wheat in Inverell because he resided in the Glen Innes district, the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Ashford) said yesterday:—"A report obtained from the Glen Innes police shows that the statement is quite untrue. No person has asked the senior-sergeant about selling wheat, nor has he told any person he could not sell wheat at Glen Innes because he lived in the Inverell district. All the other police at Glen Innes have been questioned, and have no knowledge of the case mentioned. Neither has the local Government agent any such knowledge, nor have the other storekeepers in the district had any offer of wheat."

NEW ZEALAND SUPPLY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Wednesday.

The Government has appointed a board to distribute among millers, according to their capacity and requirements, the wheat purchased from Canada and Australia.

COOLAMON, Wednesday.

At a largely-attended meeting of the Farmers and Settlers' Association it was resolved,—"That this meeting condemns the action of the Government in fixing the price of wheat below current market value."

JAPAN'S ENVOYS.

RECEIVED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

TO ENCOURAGE TRADE.

Japan has sent out delegations with the object of increasing her status in the world of commerce, manufacture, and production. Australia showed great possibilities, and to her shores was sent one of the strongest delegations. The Chamber of Commerce in Sydney was delighted to meet the envoys, and yesterday at noon the visitors were introduced.

The envoys were Dr. J. Miura, secretary of the Department of Commerce, of the Imperial Japanese Government, who is accompanied by Mr. Apcar, a friend, who acts as an interpreter when he is required; Mr. N. Matumora, Mr. F. S. Nakagawa, and Mr. K. Hishida, who are business men of Tokyo. They were accompanied by the Consul-General for Japan (Mr. S. Shimizu), and were met by the president of the chamber (Mr. Winchcombe), who introduced them to the members.

Mr. Shimizu said that the mission of his friends was to cement the commercial relations between Australia and Japan, more particularly to meet a new situation brought about by the war. Since the outbreak of war various inquiries had come to his office from business men of Australia, and it would appear that the trade relations between this country and Europe had been partly cut off, and the supply of merchandise stopped. The great stores of Australia would soon be exhausted, and they would have to look somewhere else. He knew that many of the things Australia required could be made in Japan, but being a Government man he was not in direct touch with commerce. He had to find out what was wanted, and with that object in view he had communicated with his Government, and was glad to say that his efforts had not been fruitless. In Japan they could manufacture and produce almost anything wanted in Australia. Their business world had come after those of the great countries of Europe, and the market for Japanese manufactures had been small. Much of their competition had now been removed, and in this expansion of trade they desired that Japan and Australia should help one another. Japan could buy what Australia produced. Up to the present the quantity of wool received by Japan had been, comparatively speaking, very small. To supply the large orders they could get they would have to import ten, twenty, thirty times as much from Australia as they had been doing. They also wanted lead and zinc from Broken Hill. He had in his mind the cementing of the interests of Japan and Australia for their mutual benefit, and incidentally for the benefit of the Allies. (Applause.)

Dr. Miura read a speech, in which he returned thanks for the courtesies extended to the delegation. The Imperial Japanese Government had sent its trade commissioners to Australia and to seven other countries, the chief object being to investigate the effects of the present war on commerce, and also to further trade relations with the countries in which they were most interested. Since the outbreak of war Mr. Shimizu, the Japanese Consul-General in Sydney, realising that commerce between Australia and Japan could be extended, had several times reported his views to the Japanese Government, and had no doubt had great influence in inducing the Government to send out the commissioners. The advisability of this course had been recognised also by Japanese business men, three of whom were accompanying him, and two more were on their way to this country. Rapid strides had been made of late years in the development of commerce between the two countries. He had great hopes that the Australian and Japanese business men would join hands and seize this most favourable opportunity to further their business relations. "On my part," said Dr. Miura, "it is needless to say that I will do all I can to help the promotion of the trade, and I will work with the courage and patience of a soldier on the battlefield." (Applause.)

Mr. Matumora gave an admirable address, in which he said that the trade between the two countries had grown considerably of late years, and he felt sure that, under ordinary circumstances, would have continued to grow, with increased benefits to both countries. An unfortunate happening last year had, however, had such an effect that no country in the world had escaped its unpleasant influence. The commission's object in coming to Australia was to secure some of the trade in goods which Australia was now unable to purchase elsewhere. If they gave satisfaction they hoped the trade would last for ever, to their mutual benefit, and that the bond of commerce would be tightened. (Applause.)

At an informal reception, the president proposed "Success to the Mission," and the Consul-General replied, stating that in a time like the present they must help each other, trust each other and rely upon each other.

MARRINUP TRAGEDY.

SHOCKING CRIME.

SEARCH FOR THE FUGITIVE.

PERTH, Wednesday.

Further particulars of the Marrinup murder show the Maltese who is suspected of having perpetrated the crime is Andrea Facheri, though he went under the name of Cutay.

The tragedy was a peculiarly revolting and ferocious one. On Monday Facheri is said to have committed an offence against Mr. Bell's eight-year-old daughter, in consequence of which he was dismissed.

It is believed that the man who committed the crime went between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning to the verandah, on which the elder daughter, Jean, aged 12 years, was sleeping. He murdered the unfortunate child with an axe, and only after he had choked her and committed a shocking outrage. He then appears to have gone to an adjacent pool and washed the blood from his hands, after which he changed his blood-soaked garments for a new suit.

Discarded clothing was found in the bush about 80 yards from the scene of the crime.

A thorough search of the country by police, black-trackers, and parties of settlers is now being made for the suspect Facheri. The authorities believe that if still alive the fugitive cannot for long remain at liberty.

FIRE AT WARATAH.

TWELVE-ROOMED HOUSE DESTROYED.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

A two-story brick house, containing 12 rooms, in Bull-street, Waratah, was destroyed by fire this morning. The place was used as a boarding establishment, and at 1 a.m. to-day one of the boarders awoke to find the house in flames. He gave the alarm, but it was only after much difficulty that all the residents escaped from the building. The fire is supposed to have originated in the dining-room, though no idea can be formed as to how it started. The boarders retired between 9 and 10 o'clock, and it was not till three hours later that the outbreak was noticed. The building was the property of the Breckenridge estate, and was rented to Joseph and Mary Little. The house was insured for £1500, and the furniture for £400.

CARNIVAL.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT MANLY.

Success brilliantly attended the opening last evening of the fourth annual carnival at Manly. The village by the sea put on its best bib and tucker, and turned out with its best girl on its arm to enjoy the occasion, and welcome the visitors, who came, not single spies, but in battalions. Fairy lights and Japanese lanterns, gleaming in every window, casting an unwonted magic over prosaic shop fronts, and swinging from invisible threads across the roadway between the shadowy blackness that stood for the accustomed pines, transformed the Corso into a garden of enchanted roses, red, orange, green, and white. Over on the sports ground, too, the grand stand and its immediate vicinity were almost dazzlingly illuminated, as well as being crowded to the last available inch with the largest attendance—so it is believed—that the ground has ever seen. But for some reason or other the chief area of operation, the ground itself, remained plunged in Stygian gloom, through which moved dimly the strange figures of the masquers—clowns and pierrots, Britannia and Lord Kitchener, giants, devils, Roman gladiators, a Crusader in chain mail, and representatives of every nationality, from China to Belgium, if not Peru. Upon this weird scene there flared at intervals the lurid fires of some elaborate set-piece on the other side of the ground, while rockets, trailing a golden furrow, ever and anon rushed hissing into the sky, only to expire in a rain of many-coloured beauty.

A procession of 40 or 50 illuminated and decorated motor cars and lorries from the wharf to the grounds was one of the features of the evening. A choir of 200 voices, members of the Royal Sydney Liedertafel, which made music beneath the stars, contributed largely to the evening's success.

NEWCASTLE.

THE YEAR'S TRADE.

INCREASES SHOWN.

NEWCASTLE, Wednesday.

With the exception of the exports of coal, the statistics showing the value of other exports and imports, and Customs revenue for the year 1914, as against 1913, indicate a good increase.

The total value of the general imports was £1,304,538, as against £1,074,582 for 1913, representing an advance of £229,956.

The total value of the exports was £3,431,546, as against £3,315,462 for 1913, an increase of £116,084. While the coal exports showed a falling-off of £237,172, the other exports advanced to the extent of £353,256.

Vessels, exclusive of coasters, entering the port during 1914 numbered 1757, with a total tonnage of 3,484,608, while in 1913 there were 1874, with a tonnage of 3,619,603. The departures were 1769, with a tonnage of 3,310,614 in 1914, compared with 1855, with a tonnage of 3,621,054, in 1913. The falling-off is due to a large extent to the afternoon shift strike, and, more recently, to the war.

The exports of coal for the year 1914 amounted to 4,753,505 tons, as against 5,236,621 tons for 1913, showing a decrease in the year's trade of 483,116 tons. In the Commonwealth and New Zealand trade there was a decline of 311,636 tons, while the remaining 171,480 tons was lost in the foreign exports. All the States but Victoria showed a big falling-off in trade, but the southern State had an increase of over 40,000 tons. The most pronounced decrease was in the exports to South Australia, which were 114,000 tons below last year's, while New Zealand's trade showed a falling-off of nearly 90,000 tons.

Owing to the outbreak of war, and the consequent cessation of the nitrate industry in Chili, the exports to that Republic fell away by 256,000 tons. Peru, Canada, and India were also far behind their totals of 1913. The trade with Java, Straits Settlements, Philippine Islands, Sandwich Islands, and the U.S.A. showed a decided improvement.

There is one bright aspect in the exports, showing that the trade with the East is greatly on the improvement.

THE SWIMMING BATHS.

A meeting was held at the council-chambers to-night for the purpose of considering the council's scheme for raising £3000 by means of season tickets at £1 each to enable the baths to be finished. The Mayor (Mr. J. C. Reid), who presided, said that a total of £9300 had been expended, and the baths were still incomplete. No business man could deny that there had been some bungling somewhere. They had got into the muddle, and they wanted to get out of it. It would take £6586 to complete the baths, but they could finish part of them for £2350.

The scheme was unanimously endorsed. A subscription list for season tickets was opened, and resulted in £206 being promised.

Father Keenan, who has been transferred to Dungog, after being assistant priest at Newcastle for the past 14 years, was presented with a purse of sovereigns prior to his departure.

MISSING TRAWLER.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

A wireless message has been received by the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) from Macquarie Island to the effect that the staff had practically searched the whole of the coast of the islands, and also Catherine Cove, without finding any trace of the Endeavour or any wreckage. The Grantala, Mr. Tudor was informed, had reached Macquarie Island, and was continuing the search.

LAUNCESTON, Wednesday.

A message has been received from Balfour, a mining town on the west coast of Tasmania, that a persistent rumour is current that five rockets were sighted from Whales Head at 9 p.m. on December 22, and also from 20 miles further south. The reports of the firing were heard at two-minute intervals for some time. This it is thought may possibly have some connection with the missing Federal trawler Endeavour. Whales Head, now known as Temma, is about 75 miles north of Macquarie Harbour entrance, and the intervening coastline is rough and devoid of a safe landing place, and practically uninhabited.

THE TELEPHONES.

RATES INCREASED FOR SUNDAYS.

The Postal authorities intimate that, on and from Sunday next, the 17th instant, double the ordinary rates will be charged for telephone trunk line calls made on Sundays.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Postal Department states that the increase in the charges for trunk calls is necessary to augment the revenue of the telephone branch. The cost is greater to keep telephone exchanges open on Sundays, as increased wages have to be paid to employees for all Sunday work.

MR. DEAKIN.

REPLY TO MR. MAHON.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The following letter was yesterday addressed to the Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Mahon) by Mr. Deakin, in reply to the Minister's letter to him, the contents of which were published yesterday morning:—

"Referring to the trouble which has arisen regarding the representation of the Commonwealth at the Panama Exhibition, the assertion that I ever withheld from the Federal or any State Government facts of vital importance in relation to the Panama Exposition is quite untrue. How is it, then, that you have never ventured to put into plain English just what the alleged facts really are? Though the exact dates of your Prime Minister's speeches defining the Government policy in respect to the Panama Exposition have been published, you have not even ventured either to quote them for public information or to censor them. You seek refuge in evasion. My own contributions to the statement of cost, laid before his supporters last September by the Prime Minister, were almost wholly criticisms of the proposed outlays. It is not true that it was my brief which Mr. Fisher read. That was not the work of any single person, but of several interested in the scheme and other commentators. The Prime Minister handled the whole question from his own point of view. The arithmetical calculations to which you allude are not of my making. I did, however, concur with critics who insisted that Mr. Nielsen's estimates of threatened losses were wholly insufficient. Permit me to congratulate him and yourself upon his confession, that even he cannot now advocate our withdrawal from San Francisco. Our Australian Commission, grappling with the extremely difficult crisis created by the European war, has received valuable assistance from several quarters, including members of Parliaments and others interested in 'our progress.'"

VICTORIA'S ATTITUDE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The report from the representative of the Victorian Government on the Panama Exhibition Commission (Mr. Hagelthorn) over the difficulty that has arisen between the chairman of the commission (Mr. Deakin) and the Commonwealth Government, was presented at a meeting of the State Cabinet to-day. It stated:—"After the outbreak of war the Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher), on the advice of the commission, invited New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland to join with the Commonwealth to carry out the modified scheme, and in his letters to the Premiers of the three States, mentioned one strong reason in favour of Australian participation. He wrote: 'Under present circumstances a withdrawal, however excused, will create a very real and indeed, profound, disappointment.' It is true that the New South Wales Commissioner (Mr. Nielsen) recommended the commission to withdraw, just as our representative in America (Mr. Fricks) recommended Victoria to proceed. I trust that it may be yet possible to so arrange that Mr. Deakin will represent us in America."

The Premier (Sir Alexander Peacock), in speaking on the subject after the meeting, said: "After the communication of Mr. Hagelthorn had been considered by the Cabinet, the members were hopeful that means will yet be found by which Mr. Deakin's services will be retained as president of the commission."

SUSPICIOUS LAUNCH.

FIRED ON BY SENTRIES.

Eight shots were fired by the sentries on Goat Island at a launch, which approached the island with all lights extinguished early yesterday morning, and hurried off in the direction of Ball's Head upon being challenged.

Sergeant Mallard and Constable Devine, of North Sydney, heard a number of shots fired about 2 a.m. in the direction of Bay-road. The police made investigation, but were unable to ascertain whence the shots had come.

In the meantime Lieutenant Hunter, who is stationed at Goat Island, telephoned the North Sydney police that a launch, acting in a suspicious manner in the vicinity of the island, and with several men on board, had been fired at when attempting to escape after being challenged.

The launch, with its occupants, escaped.

POLITICAL DISPUTE.

CONFIDENTIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

HOBART, Wednesday.

A deadlock has occurred between the Legislative Council and the Government over the retention of a name in what Ministers regard as confidential correspondence. The Council ordered it to be tabled, the Government declined, and remained firm in that decision. Last night when the Council met, the Minister was asked to table correspondence, and again refused, whereupon the House adjourned till next day as a protest.

The Adelaide and Suburban Master Bakers' Association has now resolved that, beginning with Monday next, the cost of the loaf delivered shall be 4½d. The sharp rise is declared to be justified in consequence of the demand for wheat all over the world.

Norman Burns, a son, discovered his mother's hands hanging over the railing of the bed, the body being covered by the curtains. She was hanging by a strap from the bedpost. Deceased had been an invalid, and worried over children who had been sick. She was 40 years of age. A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned.

Deceased's companion was severely injured, but was able to go for assistance.

ENEMY PATENTS.

CASES FOR VOIDANCE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Under the Patents, Trade Marks, and Designs Act, passed during the last session of the Commonwealth Parliament, the Minister has power to "avoid or suspend in whole or in part any patent or license, the person entitled to which is the subject of any State at war with the King."

The first applications under the Act came before the Commissioner of Patents (Mr. Townsend) at the patents office to-day, when H. Teesdale Smith, of Armadale, a well-known contractor, applied for the voidance or suspension of eight patents (1) in connection with apparatus for joining and piercing together railway rails, girders, and the like, held principally by Hans Goldschmidt and Karl Goldschmidt, trading as the firm of T. H. Goldschmidt, and by Dr. Hans Goldschmidt.

Mr. Teesdale Smith also sought the avoidance or suspension of three applications for patents, which are as follow:—(1) Method of trimming parallel faces in the ends of rails and other objects for butt welding, made by the T. H. Goldschmidt Actien Gesellschaft; (2) process of welding rails and the like laid already in paved roads (made by the T. H. Goldschmidt Actien Gesellschaft); (3) process of enlarging the space between the end of rails laid already in paved roads (made by the T. H. Goldschmidt Actien Gesellschaft).

In each case the application of Mr. Teesdale Smith was opposed by the Hawthorn Tramway Trust and by the Minister for Public Works in New South Wales (Mr. Griffith), who was represented by Mr. V. G. Braham and Mr. W. Bayston. In addition, Mr. Henry Chinn, of St. Kilda, opposed the application for the two patents, for the avoidance of which he had applied himself. An application for an adjournment was made on behalf of the opponents of the applications of Mr. Teesdale Smith, and the hearing had been adjourned until February 8.

NEW ZEALAND.

DEARER BOOTS.

WELLINGTON, Wednesday.

A fortnight hence the price of footwear will be raised between 10 per cent. and 17½ per cent. The increase will affect all grades, but the higher qualities will suffer most. The price for repairs have already increased about 15 per cent. Merchants say the rises are the direct outcome of the war and the abnormal demand for leather.

A petition against the election of Mr. M'Nab for Hawkes Bay has been presented.

THE POLICE SYSTEM.

Changes in the administration of the police system of the State were foreshadowed yesterday by the Chief Secretary, Mr. Cann, who said they had been agreed to by the Acting Inspector-General, Mr. Mitchell.

It is intended to make the superintendent or inspector in charge of a district responsible for the whole of the police work of the district.

Traffic police are to discharge their duties as usual, but they will be expected in future to assist other policemen in the immediate vicinity if it be necessary for them to do so.

Mr. Cann does not propose to make any alteration in the system of granting pensions, but the personnel of the board administering them is to be changed.

The Rev. E. Price, who has been for many years connected with the Baptist Church in Sydney, died at his residence, Edwin-street, Croydon, early this morning, aged 85 years.

RATEPAYERS INDIGNANT.

At a meeting held last night at Chatswood, under the auspices of the Chatswood-Willoughby Progress Association, "the unnecessarily hasty action" of the council in striking the rate for the current year at 4d in the £ for general purposes was condemned, in view of the fact that "the repeatedly expressed wishes of the ratepayers in regard to the financial policy of the municipality have not only been improperly ignored, but also the assurances given by the Mayor at a public meeting on November 24 last have not been adhered to, and this meeting therefore now considers that the council does not retain the confidence of the public, and that the aldermen should resign forthwith."

The motion was carried.

GERMAN OUTRAGES.

STATEMENT BY PREFECT OF NANCY.

The neighbourhood of Nancy, according to the special correspondent of the London "Morning Post" in that district, is one that has suffered so severely from the effects of the present war, partly as a result of inevitable military operations and partly owing to the deliberate policy of the Germans, that it seems worth more than a passing study. "I have succeeded," the correspondent says, "in obtaining facilities to visit several of the places that have suffered most severely from the first three months of the war. With a view of having a proper perspective, I called on M. Mirman, the Prefect of Nancy. 'In considering the question of the devastation round Nancy', M. Mirman said to me, 'you have carefully to differentiate between two classes of events. In some instances our towns and villages have been sacrificed to the military necessities either of the Germans or of ourselves, in others our small communities have been assassinated. As to the first class, there is no need for me to say anything. We recognise in France that there are cases when the laws of war justify the destruction of a town or village, but consider the case of two places that are typical. Nomeny and Gerbeviller. These two towns were deliberately fired, house by house, by the Germans. This is proved not only from evidence obtained on the spot, but because in nearly every instance the four walls and chimneys of the houses remained intact, whereas if a shell had fired them there would at least have been a hole in the wall. I visited both these communes immediately after they had been evacuated. In neither of them had there been any fighting.'

"There have been many cases of atrocities perpetrated on civilians. At Gerbeviller, for instance, I saw outside the town the bodies of fifteen civilians, old people, whose hands had been tied, and who had been shot. Altogether between 70 and 80 civilians must have been shot at Gerbeviller, either collectively or like rabbits in the streets. At Nomeny I should say that 40 or 50 similarly perished. The victims included men, women, and children. From Embermenil a particularly bad case was reported two days ago. The place lies between the outposts of the two armies, and is held now by one side and now by the other. The Germans recently came in and asked a woman if she had seen any French soldiers. She answered 'No.' The Germans passed through the village, and ran into a French patrol, and retreated. A few hours later they returned, and asked who had given the information. The woman admitted that she had done so, not knowing that a French patrol was in the neighbourhood. None the less, she was shot."

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE.

BUSINESS MAN'S DEFENCE.

GOULBURN, Wednesday.

A local business man, writing to a United States firm with which he does business, complained of the American attitude to the war. In reply the firm wrote:—"We are sorry to learn that there is any feeling in Australia that the United States does not maintain a proper attitude commercially to the nations of Europe at war. We think the general intention and effort of the American people as a whole has been to preserve such an attitude. Of course, there are some amongst us who are going to turn their honest (?) dollar, regardless of who is hurt, and we judge from your letter that not all of your own people are maintaining an attitude to the enemy that pleases all of the Australians; so you will have to give us credit for the best intent of the American people as a whole, and don't take as a criterion of the American thought and interest in this matter the reports that you will see in the publications of William Randolph Hearst."

COUNTRY HELP.

GLEN INNES, Wednesday.

At a public meeting held here yesterday it was resolved to raise £100 for the Belgian Fund and a sum of £667 1s 6d was subscribed in the room. The Pastoral and Agricultural Association is also raising £200 among its members for the same purpose, and has £130 in hand. It is proposed to remit the money this month so as to take advantage of the Government's subsidy of pound for pound.

GRAFTON, Wednesday.

The patriotic carnival, promoted by the Commercial Travellers of the North Coast, was attended by about seven thousand people. It was slightly marred by rain in the forenoon. The procession was one of the most attractive seen here, and included numerous trade displays. Seven bands played selections, and all public bodies and organisations took part. Sports were conducted on the showground during the afternoon.

LITHGOW, Wednesday.

Major Baxter, who was one of the first to volunteer from Lithgow, for the front, and is at present stationed at Liverpool camp, was entertained in the Town Hall by a representative gathering, and presented with a purse of sovereigns.

KURRI KURRI, Wednesday.

TO LEAVE GERMANY.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

The Federal authorities have been informed by the Colonial Office that the German Government has agreed to facilitate the departure from Germany of British women and children under 17 years of age, and of males under 17 and over 55 years. The United States representative in Germany will, it is added, take all steps to arrange for the return of such persons.

GERMAN WOOL BUYERS.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

Difficulty arose at the wool sales yesterday with regard to the presence of some German buyers. It is understood that the wool brokers met in the morning and resolved to take measures to protect themselves from carrying on business with the enemy. The matter was not easy to settle, but steps were taken to ensure a medium of protection. The secretary of the Wool Brokers' Association (Mr. Gilbert Wilson) said that buyers of German or Austrian nationality would be called on to prove their bona fides by disclosing for whom they were acting.

RED CROSS.

The promoters of the N.S.W. Railways and Tramways' Officers' War Fund have given £500 for the purchase of a motor ambulance. All goods are now being sent to base hospitals, and it is considered advisable to discontinue packing soldiers' bags. Clothing should be packed in bales, each bale containing articles of the same description. Goods particularly in requisition at the Town Hall basement are—shirts, socks, cholera belts, and pyjamas.

Workers at Concord, numbering only 17 ladies, have raised £41 2s.

Ladies wishing to make Balaclava caps may obtain wool, with instructions, by applying to Mrs. H. Goddard (president), Morven, Concord, or to Mrs. R. Taylor (joint hon. sec.), Avoca, Ada-street, Concord.

The committee anticipates holding a Japanese village fair on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, February 13.

BROKEN HILL GERMAN CLUB.

INQUEST INTO FIRE.

BROKEN HILL, Wednesday.

An inquest was held this afternoon into the cause of the fire at the German Club on the night of January 1. After evidence had been taken, showing that the police had insufficient control of the crowd, the Coroner returned a verdict that the buildings were maliciously set fire to and destroyed by a person or persons, whom the evidence did not enable him to state.

Inspector Miller said the deed was apparently done by the crowd in revenge for the tragedy of the morning. Had he anticipated such an outbreak he would have taken precautions, which might have prevented the fire. The police and military, he said, did all possible in the matter, but the crowd was large and wildly excited.

RECIPROCAL TRADE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Wednesday.

Speaking at the New Zealand Club luncheon at Christchurch, Mr. Fisher said that nothing was nearer his heart than to see established reciprocal trade relations between New Zealand and Australia. It would take time, great patience, and much trouble before they arrived at any advance on the present position.

Replying to Mr. Fisher's suggestion that he should visit Australia to confer with the Commonwealth Ministers on reciprocity and other questions, Mr. Massey said to-day that owing to the political position he must not leave New Zealand at present. He had had numerous invitations from Australia during the last few months.

MOTOR CYCLING.

AMERICAN ROAD RACE.

Details have just come to hand by mail of the great American motor cycle road race, held at Savannah on November 26, over a distance of 300 miles. There were 38 starters, and the race resulted in a win for Lee Taylor, riding an Indian, with J. Walters (Excelsior) second, and J. Janke (Harley Davidson) third. Walters, who finished second, commenced the last circuit with a lead of 16s from Taylor, but experienced tyre trouble, which undoubtedly robbed him of victory. He finished on the rim. The winner's time was 5h 2m, equal to 60 miles per hour.

During the progress of the race one rider skidded on a banked curve and was instantly killed; and later on another competitor crashed into a tree, sustaining injuries to which he succumbed the following day.

DOUBLE INCOME TAX IN ENGLAND.

The council of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce has adopted the following resolution, and ordered a copy to be sent to London:—

The Sydney Chamber of Commerce supports the protests which were made by the council of the London Chamber of Commerce against the retention of clause 5 in the British Finance Bill of 1914. It also urges the appointment of a tribunal of inquiry to go into the whole question of income tax at the earliest moment. This chamber is of opinion that the collection of income tax from British residents with income derived from property abroad, on the whole amount of that income, in addition to the tax already paid in the country where the money is earned cannot fail to militate against the interests of the overseas dominions.

COMMONWEALTH BANK.

Transactions of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia in its savings branch for the week ended January 12 and to date have been as follow:—

| | Week ended Jan. 12. | To date. |

Depositors' balances on January 9 thus aggregated £6,063,088, compared with £3,737,687 on January 12, 1914.

PAYMENT OF FREIGHTS.

The secretary of the Oversea Shipping Representatives' Association advises that a cable has been received from owners intimating that they have agreed that from January 13 freight on wool and general cargo may be paid at port of shipment or port of discharge, as payers of freight may prefer. Port of discharge means a port of call of the original carrying steamer.

WAR PROBLEMS.

TELEGRAPHIC CODES.

The Sydney Chamber of Commerce has adopted the following resolution on the general question of cable codes:—

This chamber urges the responsible authorities to consider:—

(a) The question of extending the number of codes permitted to be used.

(b) The reintroduction of the 10-letter system of charging for plain language messages.

(c) The question of permitting code cables to pass between, at any rate at present, the various Dominions.

In adopting these recommendations the chamber wishes to emphasise that it is in entire sympathy with the precautions which have been taken by the military authorities. In view, however, of the present position of affairs, it is felt that some relaxation of the regulations might safely be conceded. In regard to (a) the number of permitted codes should certainly be enlarged, pending approval being given for private codes to be used.

In regard to recommendation (b), it might be mentioned that large numbers of merchants who have hitherto used private codes are unable to obtain much benefit in using any of the permitted codes, and are compelled largely to pay plain language rates—a very heavy imposition. In regard to (c), the present regulations only permit of coded cables passing between Great Britain and the Dominions and the Dominions and Great Britain. There seems no real reason at the present juncture why the various Dominions should not also have this privilege, inter se."

A copy of this resolution is to be forwarded to the Postmaster-General, the cable companies, the London Chamber of Commerce, and to the High Commissioner, Sir George Reid.

INCOME TAX PROBLEMS.

A BUILDER'S TROUBLES.

"Builder" writes:—

Sir,—I am the owner of a cottage, which I value at £950. I built this cottage for sale, but owing to the war I am unable to find a buyer. The place has not brought me in any return since I finished it about five months ago. I am also erecting another cottage, on which I have expended about £500 to date. This place I have also built for sale. I have about £250 invested in mortgages bringing in 6½ per cent. per annum. I have an overdraft from a bank of about £160, and will be obliged to borrow about another £150 to complete cottage No. 2. (1) Must I send in a return? (2) Will I have to pay income tax? (3) If so, on what amount?

(1) Yes. (2) If there are no other sources of income, no.

LAND INHERITED FROM HUSBAND.

"P.Q.S. writes:—

Sir,—I am the owner of land which became mine upon the death of my husband in 1911, he having purchased it 30 years previously. It is mortgaged, and all amounts received from sales during 1914 were applied to the payment of interest and the reduction of the mortgage. Will I have to furnish an income tax return?

Yes. But no tax would be leviable.

IS A RETURN NEEDED.

T.P.M. writes:—

Sir,—My income last year was about £60 from wages. (1) Is it necessary to furnish a return? (2) Is a cash legacy from deceased estate considered income? (3) Is it compulsory for every individual who earns wages, however small in amount, to furnish a return?

(1) No. (2) No. (3) Not if less than £200.

GOING TO THE WAR.

"Egypt" writes:—

Sir,—I own a business and am going to the war. My wife intends to conduct the business during my absence. As regards income tax, would there be an exemption in my case, or should I have to pay the full amount?

No. Our correspondent must risk his life and his money as well. It is scarcely just, but it is the law.

SALARY, RENT, MORTGAGE.

M.W. writes:—

Sir,—I am the owner of a pair of cottages in Bondi valued at £1900. I am living in one, and receiving £52 per year for the other. They are mortgaged to the extent of £440. I receive £3 per week salary; have I to pay income tax or make out a return?

A return would be needed; but no tax would be payable.

EXECUTOR'S TROUBLES.

"Executor" writes:—

Sir,—1. G. is an executor of an estate which should have been distributed to the legatees nearly twelve months ago, but, through several difficulties arising, distribution has not yet taken place. During 1914 the estate produced income to the amount of about £280. This amount (or slightly more) was actually distributed to the legatees on account of their respective shares, but the main portion of the estate is still in the hands of the executor. Is the executor liable to furnish a return? If so, is the amount liable to taxation? As the amount was divisible amongst no fewer than eight persons (several of whom have no income at all), it appears very unjust that tax should be levied with only one deduction of £250. Is this so? 2. Is a direct bequest received from a deceased estate regarded as income of the legatee?

1. The executor must furnish a return. There is only one exemption. 2. No.

TEACHERS' SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES.

"Tutor" writes:—

Sir,—1. A State school teacher's total annual allowance is £240, less £30 assessed annual rental value of residence, leaving £210. This £210 includes £24 as sewing allowance to his wife. He also receives £9 5s annually as cleaning allowance.

2. Another teacher receives £198 annually, out of which he himself has to pay rent for a residence not vested in department. He also receives cleaning allowance.

Must they both furnish returns?

The first named certainly must send in a return. If the clearing allowance of the second exceeds £2, he, too, must furnish a return.

CAN LOSS ON SHARES BE DEDUCTED?

Mr. H. J. Andrews writes:—

Sir,—(1) Where a person is in receipt of a salary and bonus exceeding £250 per annum, and has purchased and sold shares at a loss during the year 1914, such transactions being altogether apart from his ordinary profession, is he entitled to deduct such losses from his gross income?

In former years Commissioners would not allow such deduction, if they are doing so now, is it by virtue of their own regulations, or by statutory enactment? I am satisfied there are many persons interested in the above query, who would appreciate a clear and definite pronouncement.

(2) Is it necessary for a taxpayer to furnish returns of all shares and debentures held by him now that companies pay the income tax direct?

(3) Is the 5 per cent. deduction on value of land and improvements, previously in force, now disallowed? If so, did this apply to last year's returns, or only to those now being furnished in respect of income accrued for the year ended December 31, 1914.

(1) No. (2) The Commissioners seem to require it; why we do not know. (3) It is now disallowed, and the disallowance applied to the returns for 1913 also.

NO RETURNS NEEDED.

"Cycle" writes:—

(1) Is it necessary to forward income tax return if your income, which is derived from property and personal exertion, does not amount to £100?

(2) Also when your income, derived from property and interest on moneys in bank, does not amount to £100?

(3) Also when a person is living in his own house, receives income from two others in the way of rent, and receives bank interest on moneys deposited; but the whole does not amount to £150 per annum?

In none of these cases is a return needed unless the Commissioners ask for one.

EXPENSES INCURRED OUTSIDE STATE.

B.B.B. writes:—

Sir,—Re the first clause in "Deductions allowed," it reads, losses, outgoings, including interest, travelling expenses, actually incurred in N.S.W., etc., etc. (1) Does this mean that any of above expenses incurred outside the State are not deductable, and in the event of same not being allowed, (2) Has a firm to include any sales made outside the State, in its gross sales?

The Commissioners have power under the Act to allow such expenses.

ALLOWANCE FOR LIVING EXPENSES.

W.F.A.W. writes:—

Sir,—I made £500 last year in a small business. From that amount I have allowed myself £5 per week to live, etc. Is this amount exempt from taxation, or shall I have to pay taxes on whole £500?

The whole £500 should be returned.

LAND PURCHASED IN 1908.

P.C.D. writes:—

Sir,—Having purchased a piece of land in the year 1908, some time before the Act came in force, and sold last year at a good profit, does this profit become taxable?

No.

INTEREST ON LEGACY.

"Trustee" writes:—

Sir,—I am a beneficiary under a will, and receive instalments from time to time for the realisation of land sold on time-payment. Seeing that it is a realisation of a legacy, is the interest received on above subject to taxation?

Yes; the interest is taxable, but not the principal sum.

SALE OF BUSINESS.

H.P. writes:—

Sir,—Three years ago I bought a business (fittings and goodwill) for £150, and spent £100 extra on fittings. Last year I sold same for £225, on terms, £100 cash, balance £2 per week, no interest. Could you kindly inform me—(1) Do I have to pay income tax on this £2? (2) Have I got to show this £2 when making out my return? If so, under what heading do I place it?

(1) No, losses are not yet taxable. (2) The whole transaction should be explained to the Commissioners in a letter.

DENTIST AND ORCHARDIST.

G.H.W. writes:—

Sir,—I am practising as a dentist, and have always made a return of income in connection with that practice, but in addition I have a small property purchased upwards of two years ago, which I am developing as an orchard. I have not had any income, except say £5, but on the contrary all outlay.

In making my income tax return can I put these two businesses together and make deductions for purchase of place, salaries, etc., for all employees, whether engaged in dental or farm work?

No. The purchase price of the orchard can never be a legitimate deduction. When the orchard is paying wages, actual expenses incurred in the production of the income, excluding cost of improvements, may be deducted from the gross profit.

A TRAVELLING FRENCHMAN.

"French" writes.—

Sir,—Have I to send in a return? This is my situation: I am French. I was in Melbourne from the 1st of January, 1914, until early in March. Left for home (France), and came back to Sydney at the end of August. I have been living here since. My income is £300 a year (salary), which I earn partly here and partly at home, drawing my salary where I am living. I have also £300 in Government Savings Bank, deposit made in December, 1914.

A return should be furnished, but no tax would have to be paid in the above circumstances.

A QUESTION OF INTEREST.

"A Subscriber" writes:—

Sir,—A lady friend of mine has in the savings bank an amount of £300 at interest, in addition to this she has an income of £300 a year. Has she to include the interest in her income, or does she pay an income tax on the £300 only, or must she include the interest in addition?

The interest should be included.

INTEREST AND RENT.

Mr. Wm. Heaney writes:—

Sir,—I will be greatly obliged if you will advise me if I have to furnish a return under following circumstances: I am drawing £40 per annum from rent of property, and about £48 per annum interest on bank deposits?

The Commissioners would probably not require a return in these circumstances. If they want one they will probably ask for it.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The chemical market was quiet. A parcel of boracic acid was sold at £48, but there were special conditions attached, so that it was hardly a true guide to the market. Distributing lots were available at 53/ per cwt. The trade explained that the high price was simply a question of supply and demand. While the supply had not increased, there was the ordinary demand from chemists, and from those who use it as a preservative, and then there was the extraordinary demand for supplying troops going to the front. Cream of tartar and tartaric acid were still quoted at 2/3 for small lots, but holders were hardly so firm in their ideas. For parcel lots of cream of tartar to arrive 1/10½ was quoted, and for parcel lots of tartaric acid 2/, though probably the latter price would be shaded. Carbide was well maintained. Some to arrive in the Nordic was sold at £18. Distributing lots on spot were worth 22/ per cwt.

The metal market generally was unchanged. The exception was tinplates. One wholesale house, finding itself short, was on the market, and had bought up to 21/. Continental No. 8 fencing wire (black) was available at £9/10/, and for American £9/17/6 was asked. No. 10 continued in good supply. German cement out of the Ernst had a few dealings at 15/6. English was selling at 16/ per cask. Kelly's axes were quoted at 46/ to 47/ per dozen, according to weight. Barbed wire was difficult to obtain, though the rates were without alteration.

A little better business was done in oils. Linseed especially had attention. Raw oil was in better demand than boiled, because of the local raw oil still being off the market. Three hundred drums of raw and boiled Blundell and Spence's and Thistle oils sold, the former at 3/11 and 4/1, and the latter at 3/9½ and 3/10½. Letters from England showed that when the proclamation prohibiting the export of linseed oil was made at the beginning of November there was a drop in quotations in Hull. The reason of the proclamation was the fact that certain shipments, made ostensibly to neutral countries, found their ultimate destination the enemy. The stoppage of export led to large quantities being thrown on to the English market. Later, however, permission to export to Holland was accorded, and the Dutch demand becoming very strong, prices sharply advanced. There was then a falling off, but in the last week of the month of November the Dutch demand was renewed, and the market again firmed. As since then cable advices show a further considerable advance the Dutch buyers are evidently still operating. Whitelead was without alteration. A few parcels of Champion's were sold at £41 for cwt. packages, and £42 for quarters. Turpentine was slightly better. Sales included 225 cases of Pinetree at 3/3. Castor oil had a brisker demand, and parcel lots were worth 3/6. For distributing lots 3/8 was wanted.

There was a slightly improved demand for branbags, and prices were firmer at from 4/6 to 4/7½ net to rails. Cornsacks were quoted at 5/6, and woolpacks at from 2/10 to 2/11 net.

F.A.Q. STANDARD.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

This afternoon the corn trade sectional committee of the Adelaide Chamber of Commerce fixed the average quality standard of this year's crop at 61lb per Imperial bushel, compared with 61½lb last season.

TO-DAY'S HOMEBUSH OFFERINGS.

The number of sheep and of cattle listed for to-day's sales at the Homebush yards is as follows:—

Sheep (including lambs) ............ 35,565
Cattle (including calves) ............ 2,930

BREADSTUFFS.

BOARD'S INSTRUCTIONS TO MILLERS.

The Wheat Acquisition Board has asked the flour millers to supply it with a return showing the quantity of flour in stock at their respective mills on December 19, 1914. The board also draws the millers' particular attention to the fact that they are not to reject any wheat which is f.a.q. of the district in which it is grown. Any wheat which is considered unfit for milling may be disposed of as chickwheat to the board's order at the rate of 5/7 a bushel cash, or 5/9 terms ex trucks. The buyers of chickwheat must give a declaration that the grain is to be used to feed poultry in the State of New South Wales. If the buyer be a retailer he will have to pledge himself to resell the grain at a reasonable trade profit.

It is also suggested by the board that millers should keep the board informed as to the quantity of wheat available for chickfeed, so that orders might be apportioned.

There was no change yesterday in the proclaimed prices for flour, bran, and pollard.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 770 tons of wheat and 170 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

PRIME CHEESE, 6½d.

With one exception every Sussex-street house yesterday advanced the price of prime loaf cheese to at least 6½d per lb. In a few instances 6¾d and 7d was asked. For some time past stocks have been extremely light, but sellers refrained from increasing quotations, as they fully anticipated that much heavier supplies would be to hand after the holidays. But the expected did not happen, and, although some agents are in a position to keep their trade supplied, others have been forced to carry over orders from day to day.

There was no movement in eggs, but the tone of the market was undoubtedly weaker than on the previous day. New-laid suburban commanded from 1/7 to 1/9, and railway and South Coasts from 1/1 to 1/2. Choice "close handy railways" brought to 1/3, and sometimes 1/4. River consignments were to be had at from 1/0½ to 1/1.

RAILWAY MARKET.

THE MARBLE INDUSTRY.

HOME OF THE "MARBLE MAN."

BATHURST, Wednesday.

Mining operations around George's Plains show a revival. The Sugar Loaf marble quarry, adjacent to the Mountain Run copper mine, has commenced work. Mr. E. Bohm, who recently sold part of his interest in his lease to a Sydney syndicate, is in charge. He is proceeding with the clearing off of the surface loam on the limestone deposit, preparatory to cutting out of the stone, which covers a lease of about 42 acres. A heavy crane is being installed. The settlement has been christened Germantown, because of the predominance of German and Austrian workers. At Bellville, Johnston and party have resumed activities, having purchased the Belmore furnace and sheds, and drawn a large quantity of material for the purpose of building two kilns for limeburning. The marble in the vicinity is also to be worked. It is interesting to recall that it was at this spot that the manufactured "marble man" was found some years ago. The greatest grievance of those interested in all the operations is the bad state of the roads.

MINING.

EXTREME STAGNATION.

VALUES FAIRLY STEADY.

When it is stated that the whole of yesterday's transactions were confined to 11 sales in five stocks, it will be seen at once that stagnation ruled the market. So dull, indeed, was it that a detailed analysis of the sales recorded is not at all necessary.

Clearly, the reopening of the London Stock Exchange has not been of the least assistance to the Australian Stock Exchanges. The restrictions imposed by the London institution, in order to protect its members from being raided by enemy scripholders, naturally have a clogging effect upon business between the London and Australian Stock Exchanges.

Indeed, local operators are of opinion that as far as the London Stock Exchange is concerned it has not stimulated business with Australian Exchanges to the slightest possible extent. Operators point out that business with the London Exchange is, under the war regulations imposed, only possible on a cash basis, and the cost of cabling, involving as it does the disclosure of many particulars, would add so much to the sale price of the shares as to render business practically impossible. In these circumstances, business between Australian and London operators is practically at a standstill.

To all intents and purposes, the Australian Stock Exchanges are as much cut off from the London Stock Exchange as when the latter was closed from the early days of August—at the outbreak of the war—until it reopened on January 4. Even the unofficial list of "middle" quotations of the leading Australian gold, copper, silver, and tin stocks that used to be received locally from London every day, together with any striking change in the price of copper, lead, spelter, or tin, is not now being received. The Australian Stock Exchanges are, indeed, as much cut off from direct communication with London as if the submarine cables had been cut by the Germans. In all these circumstances, the business of the Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney Stock Exchanges has to rely solely on its Australian character, though there is a growing feeling locally that the time is not far distant when there will be a pronounced movement in metal values—especially in the case of tin, copper, and spelter.

MOUNT LYELL FIELD.

LAUNCESTON, Wednesday.

About 17,000 tons of pyrites are monthly being produced from the Mount Lyell mines for smelting requirements at the reduction works. The third furnace, which had been out of commission for nine months owing to shortage of ore supplies, was blown in on Sunday, and the furnaces are again in constant operation. At North Lyell mine rich ore continues to be won from the 1100ft level, where the ground floor of No. 4 stope is lately showing an appreciable enlargement. Very hard country is still being met with in No. 2 engine winze, the depth to date being about 92ft. The stopes at the 1000ft, 925ft, 850ft and 700ft levels are maintaining an average production of ore. The supply of labour is now fairly adequate. A normal output of 10,000 tons is monthly being sent to the smelters.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The monsoonal depression is still in evidence over eastern Australia, the dip extending well into New South Wales, but since Tuesday a slight northerly surge has taken place, and consequently the unsettled, thundery, and showery conditions are contracting to the North Coast. The high pressure has not made much easterly progress during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday, but has moved northwards to the extent of about 500 miles. The centre of this high pressure is still well to the south, the highest barometer reading, 30.3 inches, being situated at Cape Northumberland and Robe.

There is evidence of two small centres in the monsoonal depression. One is shown over the Northern Territory, and the other in the Gascoyne district in Western Australia. There are also indications of another Antarctic disturbance to the south-west of the Leeuwin. Showers may still be expected on the coast, but chiefly north of Sydney, fine elsewhere, with cool moderate temperatures.

Ocean Forecast: Strong easterly blows on the north-west coast of Western Australia. Squally to gales from the south-east on the central and south Queensland coast.

MOTOR DRIVING means £3 to £5 weekly. 100 cars are sold in Sydney wkly. Drivers have to come from somewhere. 300 drivers were advertised for by the military for the transport lorries. It took 5 weeks to get them. Men trained in this school a few weeks ago have joined and gone with the above; 3000 private cars have been licensed by the police since April. Not including taxis or lorries—think of it—it is a Profession worth Learning—is the Pay or the Work better than other occupations? Of course it is. Why not take it up? 571 Students have been trained in this school this year. Many of these are seen driving the best cars and lorries in Sydney. We guarantee you the license and proficiency in 10 to 20 days, or refund your money if we fail. There are more licenses obtained every week than all similar businesses in Sydney by our students. This statement may be verified by the Police Traffic Dept., where our students are tested; 12 out of 14 passed Friday last. Not one failure. Sometimes as many as 20 go for the test weekly. Police, Ambulance, Firemen are trained here. The largest motor school in the State. Students helped to get positions when competent. Day and night classes. Course, £1/10/ for car and services.
